U.S. Inquiry Shows Big Bank Interlocked With Power Services

Senate Committee Is Told Morgan Company Controls United Corporation, Which Is Affiliated With Companies Doing Nearly One-quarter of Electric and Gas Business of Republic

Inquiry Recessed Till Wednesday

By Nathan Robertson, Associated Press Staff Writer

Washington, May 26.—Suppressed tension over the United States Senate's Morgan investigation burst forth in dispute at today's hearing, in the wake of disclosure that the wealthy banking house controlled the United Corporation, a utilities stock-holding organization, which in turn is affiliated with companies doing 22 per cent of the electric and gas output business of the United States.

The investigation was recessed this afternoon until next Wednesday.

Senator Carter Glass of Virginia at today's session turned over the tactics of Ferdinand Pecora, the vigorous New York attorney, who as counsel for the inquiry has had J. P. Morgan and one of his partners, George Whitney, under stringent examination in the past three days, and to-day drew further evidence of Morgan activities from George Howard, as president of the United Corporation.

The tart Virginia Democrat demanded, to the excitement of the crowded audience, to know the exact course of the inquiry. He raised questions about Pecora's retention as counsel, while silence fell on the huge hearing hall.

Pecora returned in kind, drawing applause with a veiled hint that his resignation could be had if the committee asked.

Through Howard he had developed that the United Corporation had received from Morgan stocks in various utilities concerns in the boom days at $12,000,000 less than their market value, and that opulent banking house had in consideration obtained a dominance over affairs of the United Corporation.

FROM $1 TO $30

Washington, May 26.—Testimony was given the United States Senate bank investigating committee to-day that J. P. Morgan and Company obtained options on 1,000,000 shares of United Corporation stock, for $1 each, which it could have sold less than a month later at a profit of about $30 each.

Taking the stand just in front of the elder Morgan, the crowded caucus room on the fourth day of the fast-breaking inquiry, George Howard, president of the United Corporation, (Turn to Page 2, Col. 7)

REFUSED EASY MONEY

Washington, May 26.—Ferdinand Pecora, counsel for the United States Senate committee investigating the Morgan banking house, to-day said he had the name of "one man" who turned down an offer to get on Morgan's select list for an "ethical reason."

He said he would later make it public with the man's letter refusing participation in a stock issue.

CHINA TRUCE TERMS STATED

Troops to Stay South of Line in Peiping Area Designated By Japanese

By Morris J. Harris, Associated Press Correspondent

Shanghai, May 26.—Despite strict censorship and official denials due to fear of the consequences, there appeared no doubt to-day a provisional Chinese-Japanese truce was signed at Miyun yesterday evening.

The document was brief, providing only for the cessation of hostilities through fixing of a line to which the Chinese forces are to withdraw, leaving details to be arranged at formal armistice negotiations to begin shortly.

Representatives of the Chinese and Japanese commanders were believed to have reached an understanding containing the following points:

1. The Chinese forces will withdraw to the agreed line.
2. Until a formal agreement is signed, China will undertake not to send troops into the area bounded by the Great Wall on the north, the Peiping-Mukden Railway on the east and the Peiping-Suiyuan railway on the west.
3. Chinese volunteer corps in the area mentioned will be disbanded and no longer encouraged or supported by Chinese authorities.
4. China will undertake to exercise strict control against an anti-Japanese movement in the area mentioned, and also in Peiping, Tientsin and elsewhere in North China.
5. Japanese troops will withdraw to the Great Wall when convinced China has sincerely fulfilled the foregoing points.

The southwest boundary of the demilitarized zone is believed here to be a straight line drawn from Mankow, the pass where the Peiping-Suiyuan railway pierces the Great Wall, to Ninghsien, fifty miles northeast of Tientsin.

It is predicted here this area will be permanently demilitarized and placed under Chinese administration "capable of maintaining friendly relations with Manchukuo."

Foreign observers said it was safe to say the truce marked informal Chinese acceptance of a huge Manchukuo empire, with an area of more than 500,000 square miles, comprising Manchuria and Jehol, and also the provinces of Chahar and Suiyuan, to the west of Jehol, which have an area of 200,000 square miles.

Proposed Constituency Borders In Alberta and Ontario Are Protested

As Japan Severed Ties With League

Members of Commons Discuss Possibility of Prorogation To-morrow As Boundary Rearrangements on Prairie and in Great Lakes Province Are Hammered Out

Sanderson And Garland Speak

Canadian Press

Ottawa, May 26.—Alberta and Ontario constituencies were discussed in the Commons to-day when the government bill re-mapping the ridings of the country again was under review.

E. J. Garland, U.F.A., member for Bow River, protested against the changes in his riding, claiming the city of Calgary was being placed in a position to dominate three Alberta seats.

F. G. Sanderson, Liberal, South Perth, Ontario, protested against the plan by which two townships from his riding would go to South Huron and the remainder be merged with North Perth.

It was reported in the lobbies the schedules of the bill would be reached this afternoon, which would make prorogation possible to-morrow.

LEAVES HIM OUTSIDE

Under the bill as drafted, Bow River would get a bit of Calgary East and lose a section to Medicine Hat, said Mr. Garland. The latter section included the town of Glenora, in which he resided, leaving him six miles outside the boundary of his constituency.

It was not the first time, said Mr. Garland, he had been deprived of residence in his riding.

He opposed the redistribution on the grounds it was inconsistent and unnecessary.

The whole question surrounding the Bow River constituency had been thoroughly discussed before the redistribution committee, said Dr. G. D. Stanley, Conservative, Calgary East, declared. The map presented by Mr. Garland as his proposal for Bow River was "without any consideration of natural boundaries."

In the redistribution in Alberta, said Dr. Stanley, cognizance was first taken of natural boundaries and then of the community interests. These two factors had governed redistribution in Alberta and had been applied to Bow River. The boundary lines of Bow River as they now stood were manifestly unfair, the Calgary member stated. "His (Mr. Garland's) straight line proposals for Bow River are to continue the conditions non-existent."

INDUSTRIES AND MINING

The two Calgary seats continued, said Dr. Stanley, while Bow River got the industrial section of East Calgary and the coal mining areas of Drummond.

SEEK TO HAVE FUND KEPT OPEN

Halting of Disbursements From Citizens' Relief Centre Is Protested

Fred Landsberg, treasurer of the Citizens' Unemployed Relief Fund, announced to-day the disbursements from the fund had been suspended for the summer months, from May 15 to August 15.

"This the same course as we followed last year," he said. "We feel that in the summer months when the weather is bright there is not the same need for help as during the winter."

This morning at a meeting of the Friendly Help Association executive, this action was protested, and the following resolution passed:

"In view of the fact that the city relief office is continually sending applicants to the Friendly Help for household necessities, furniture, bedding and clothing, and the tremendous demand that the Friendly Help is receiving from all other sources, be it resolved that the citizens unemployed relief fund be approached to function during the summer months and not confine themselves to supplying clothing only."

In a statement issued following the conference, Hon. R. W. Bruhn, Minister of Public Works, said the provincial government would make a recommendation to that effect to the federal government.

Theory of Triangle in Chinese Killing Is Followed By Police

Suspects Checked Off List; Dead Man's Life Here Since 1921 Reviewed

Police officials working on the Sue Min Jim murder case to-day pursued an intensive investigation into the last twelve years of the life of the Chinese servant who was slain at the home of his employer, H. M. McGivern, in the Uplands, Tuesday night. Sue had been in Canada since 1921.

More than twenty Chinese, mostly friends and relatives of the murdered man, have been interrogated by the officers, seeking to learn the motive for the crime.

Chief among these was a man the officers had been unable to locate at first and who they knew to be familiar with the layout of the McGivern house. After hearing his story, he was temporarily checked off the suspect list.

WOMAN LOCATED

Late yesterday, the police located the woman they believed might have had an innocent connection with the affair. She is a Chinese restaurant girl who had been friendly with Sue Min Jim and had borrowed money from him at one time. Although still holding one theory that the motive for the killing may have been supplied by jealousy over the girl, the officers were unable to learn much of a definite nature from her.

Sergeant W. A. McBrayne of the Provincial Police is assisting Chief John Syme of the Oak Bay force and Sgt. M. T. Berger and Detective G. J. Hayward of the R.C.M.P. in investigation of the case. George Hart of the immigration department, has also volunteered.

U.S. Off Gold Basis By Statute Route

Roosevelt Decides to Have Congress Enact Bill Embodying What He Did By Order

Canadian Press and Associated Press

Washington, May 26.—President Roosevelt has decided the United States should go off the gold standard by statute.

He to-day requested Chairman Steagall of the House of Representatives banking committee to introduce a resolution to place the United States off the standard by law.

The Alabama Democrat conferred with the President at the White House. Later he called newspapermen to his office and read a copy of the resolution which he said "declares the United States is off the gold standard by statute."

"It repeals the 'Gold Standard Act,'" Steagall said, adding that under the resolution, no bonds, no obligations of the United States Government and no obligations of any form would have to be paid in gold or gold currency on the enactment of the measure.

IN ANY LEGAL MONEY

He said it would be possible for the foreign debtors to pay the United States their war debts in any legal money.

"This bill frees the United States from the obstacles and handicaps of the gold standard," he declared.

"It is an administration bill and a part of President Roosevelt's emergency relief programme."

In addition, Steagall said, the law would make it unnecessary for President Roosevelt to devalue the gold dollar under the inflation provisions of the Farm Relief Act.

Steagall termed the measure one of the greatest steps toward stabilizing money in the United States.

All legal money under this act, he asserted, would meet all obligations payable in gold.

Chairman Fletcher of the Senate banking committee will introduce an identical resolution in the Senate.

SPEAKER ASSAILS NEW TITLES MOVE

Guelph, Ont., May 26.—Vigorously attacking any plan which would mean restoration of titles in Canada, Captain Elmore Philpott of Hamilton, yesterday evening addressed a gathering of nearly 1,000 persons here under the auspices of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation.

"When Rome burned, Nero fiddled. They will be saying that when Canada burned, Premier Bennett went hunting a title," he said.

He described it as "a disgraceful attempt to bring back titles and trap-traps that nobody wants."

U.S. INCOME TAX GAP BEING CLOSED

Washington, May 26.—An amendment to the administration's public works-industrial control measure to limit deductions from capital losses to one year in making out income tax returns was approved to-day by the United States House of Representatives Ways and Means Committee.

(The proposal, an outgrowth of testimony before the Senate banking committee that J. P. Morgan and his nineteen partners had paid no income tax in this country in the last two years, was approved as the house neared a vote on the huge measure. A final rollcall was expected before adjournment.)

WANT ALL TO TAKE HIGH SCHOOL TEST

Efforts of the Spanish School Board succeed, all grade eight students in the municipality will write examinations for entry into high school this year, and the recommendation system will be dispensed with. At a meeting yesterday evening the board ordered a letter forwarded to the Ministry of Education requesting that this action be sanctioned in view of the death of former inspector of schools, J. M. Paterson, who formerly had charge of the recommendations.

The board previously made a similar request and received no reply from the ministry, and with the date for final examinations drawing close, it is hoped that a definite answer will be given to guide the trustees accordingly.

But Britain Will Not Add to Commitments in European Continental Field, Foreign Secretary Tells Commons

Canadian Press

London, May 26.—Great Britain intends to assume no new European continental obligations, Sir John Simon, Foreign Secretary, fresh from Geneva, told the Commons to-day during the course of a speech in which he outlined the five points of this country's disarmament policy.

Sir John spoke of obligations the United Kingdom had assumed as a signatory to the covenant of the League of Nations and the Locarno pacts. Then, greeted by an outburst of cheering, he added this emphatic statement:

"These obligations we shall strive to perform, but our friends on the continent well understand and it cannot be too clearly understood, that it is no part of the policy of Britain to assume fresh and additional obligations."

MESSAGE WELCOMED

Sir John's five points, in effect, were:

1. A warm welcome and cordial response to President Franklin D. Roosevelt's recent peace message to the world.
2. Britain already has made immense reductions in armaments and cannot go farther without a general agreement among the nations. Britain has shown in the draft convention she submitted to the World Disarmament Conference.

DR. COULTAS

1309 Douglas Street (Ground Floor)

Ottawa Session May End To-morrow

Dr. Stanley paid tribute to the co-operation given to the sub-committee by Hon. Charles Stewart (Liberal, Edmonton West) and D. M. Kennedy (U.F.A., Peace River).

Dr. Stanley was so much concerned over preserving community of interest why he had divided the Imperial Oil refineries in East Calgary from the Imperial Oil works in Turner Valley? asked Mr. Garland. Also, why had he not united the constituency of Lethbridge, a mining community, with Crow's Nest?

Mr. Garland believed the redistribution had endangered the seat of Premier Bennett in Calgary West, but that it had been arranged so as to give a safe seat to Dr. Stanley in Calgary East.

It was quite obvious, Mr. Garland concluded, that the change in Calgary had been made because the member for Calgary East feared he would have an adverse vote there, and further because he hoped to split the Farmer-Labor group by creating a situation in Bow River which would mean the nomination of a candidate from each party.

If the government was prepared to put through "an obvious gerrymander," that was its privilege and responsibility, Mr. Garland concluded, indicating he would now rest his case.

YESTERDAY'S DEBATE
During the debate on the bill yesterday Robert McKenzie, Liberal, Assiniboia, said the natural boundaries of the province should be followed in establishing the constituencies. He protested against the riding of Long Lake, Sask., being set as to embrace that sheet of water in its entirety. The bill should be the dividing line between Long Lake and Long Lake.

T. F. Donnelly, Liberal, Willow Bunch, Sask., protested against changing the name of the riding to Mount, declaring the only purpose had been to split the government constituency.

Adjustment of boundaries in Saskatchewan was necessary, said Harry Butcher, Liberal, Mount, but there was no need to eliminate constituencies. He objected to abolition of his own riding.

MOTHERWELL SPEAKS
"We don't want to fight, but by jingo if we do," said Hon. W. R. Motherwell, Liberal, Melville, Sask., shaking his fist at the government benches.

In the next election I don't believe the Tory party will have a look in. Without the help of the C.C.F. they wouldn't elect forty members in the whole Dominion. The C.C.F. is really the left wing of the Tory party," he said.

"People have been killed for less than that," interjected E. J. Garland, U.F.A., Bow River.

Mr. Motherwell said the government proposal regarding Prince Albert (the constituency of Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King) was "one of the most shameful treatments of one leader by another I have ever heard of."

He understood, the former agriculture minister said, that the Prime Minister was to be given an earldom, dukedom or some such honor in the gift of the sovereign.

"I wonder what it is he is to be honored for," he said. "Is it for so ruthlessly putting the ticket on my right honorable leader?"

"If he is to be an earl why doesn't he act like an earl instead of treating his right honorable opponent like this? If he acts like this before he gets the honor, how will he behave after?"

"LORD GERRYMANDER"
"And I wonder what title he will take. Somebody suggests 'Lord Gerry-mander' and that would be most appropriate, if he lets this bill go through."

"If my gentle hand will not avail, then I must use the mailed fist," Mr. Motherwell declared.

Big Timber Limits Are Ordered Sold

GAINS HIS DEGREE

Vancouver, May 26.—Sale of the McLaren timber limits in the Sayward District on Vancouver Island to satisfy a $1,001,415 judgment, obtained by the Labele Timber Co. Ltd. against the Labele Timber Co. Ltd. and Lumber Co. Ltd. was ordered by Mr. Justice Murphy in the B.C. Supreme Court here to-day, when he fixed July 28 and the Vancouver Courthouse as time and place for the sale.

The property will be knocked down to the highest bidder in an auction sale to be conducted by the registrar of the court.

Plaintiff and defendant have registered offices in Vancouver.

Covering 10,000 acres and containing 650,000,000 feet of timber, the tract was sold April 4, 1930, by the Labele Timber Co. Ltd. to defendant firm for $1,000,000. Of this the Labele Timber Co. Ltd. paid $300,000 in cash.

Interest and principal instalments in default to date total $391,450.

C. M. O'Brien, K.C., counsel for the plaintiff, informed the court the purchaser had paid nothing on the principal since the initial cash payment. His client, he explained, had paid over $2,000 in rentals to the provincial government on May 13 when the defendant refused to pay the money because it was unable to secure an extension of time for payments under the agreement.

An application of D. S. Montgomery, counsel for the defendant, for a postponement for the purpose of obtaining further time to enable his client to make financial arrangements, was refused. However, he was accorded the concession of having the sale fixed for July 28 instead of an earlier date.

Hearing on Divorce Annulment Nears Its End in Edmonton Court

Counsel For Alberta Cabinet Member Completes His Argument

Canadian Press
Edmonton, May 26.—Argument for the defence was completed to-day by S. B. Woods, K.C., chief counsel for Hon. O. L. McPherson, Alberta Minister of Public Works, in the action brought by Mrs. Cora McPherson, the minister's ex-wife, for an annulment of the divorce obtained from her in an undefended suit in 1931.

Woods started his argument yesterday afternoon and in its continuance to-day defended the actions of the minister. He sought to show the defendant's testimony and letters to Cora indicated he did not want her to leave her home.

Counsel said there was no indication in any of the letters presented in the case that there was an arrangement whereby Mrs. Cora McPherson should provide evidence which her husband could divorce her.

The case probably will be left with Mr. Justice Ford this afternoon for decision following a short rebuttal argument by the plaintiff's counsel.

PREMEDITATED KILLING
The fiendish nature of the murder has led the police to definitely drop robbery as a motive. They are now satisfied it was a premeditated and carefully-planned killing, due to the location and the absence of any signs of a struggle. Furthermore, the killer vanished without trace.

Oak Bay officers are working directly at the scene of the crime, methodically searching every inch of grass and bush within a radius of a yard in all directions from the house. If the death weapon can be found it may prove a valuable clue to the murder.

NO CHOPPER IN HOUSE
A suggestion that Sue was slain with his own chopper was followed when it was discovered that there was no article of this nature among his kitchen utensils at the McOlivier home. Members of the household were not aware he had ever possessed such an article, however, although it is often the custom of Chinese cooks to use chopsticks.

Footprints found beneath the window of Sue's bedroom, which the murdered is believed to have entered, were little help, as they had been trodden over repeatedly while he stood there.

Dr. drivers on the Uplands' run have been questioned, but they saw no Chinese other than Sue traveling to the house.

Careful attention to-day was paid to Sue's personal correspondence and other documents which might give a clue to his enemies, if he had any. There also remained the possibility the killing was a result of the man's political allegiances.

The correspondence is not of a particularly illuminating nature in this regard. It contains several letters from his wife in China, records of his financial business and other documents giving the police information regarding other Chinese with whom he associated.

HOSPITAL LOSS SHOWS DECREASE

Vancouver, May 26.—The Vancouver General Hospital operated in April with a general deficit for many years, according to Dr. A. K. Haywood, superintendent. The deficit, he says, was $10,000, compared with $16,000 for the corresponding month last year.

Approximately $6,000 of this year's deficit was due to a reduction of twenty-five cents per patient in the provincial government's grant to the hospital, he points out.

U.S. Inquiry Shows Big Bank Interlocked With Power Services

said the corporation was formed January 7, 1929.

About January 11, he went on, the concern got from the Morgan company a considerable quantity of stock in the Mohawk, Hudson Power, United Gas Improvement Company, and Public Service of New Jersey.

He said the United Corporation received the stock at "about $12,000,000 less than its market value."

He was questioned persistently by the witness as to the source of the stock. The turnover gave the banking firm control of Howard's organization. In turn, the United Corporation was authorized to issue a total capital stock of 15,000,000 shares consisting of 1,000,000 first preferred, 2,000,000 preference shares and 10,000,000 common.

His words being followed closely by J. P. Morgan and other of the Morgan partners, Howard told the crowded room no first preferred had been issued, but 600,000 of the 83 preference stock had been issued, and also 800,000 shares of common, all being taken by Morgan.

The firm also received 714,000 option warrants entitling it to buy that number of common stock shares at $27.50 a share.

"Each share had one vote," Howard said.

"Who had control?" Pecora asked.

ALL INTERESTED
Howard returned, while Senators around the long committee table leaned over to hear.

Howard said the 800,000 shares of common stock gave control without the exercise of the option warrants for common stock.

Consulting his records now and again, the witness said the companies in which his corporation holds an interest do 22 per cent of the electric and gas business of the United States on an output basis.

In the hot and crowded Senate caucus room, he appeared as the third witness in the investigation into activities by the Morgan firm—the plan being that at the end of to-day's session the inquiry would recess until next Wednesday.

NOT PUBLISHED
Washington, May 26.—The United States senate banking committee to-day decided to withhold from publication the list of debts owed by partners in the J. P. Morgan Company to the firm.

In closed session this forenoon the committee received the secret partnership agreement of the Morgan coteries showing division of profits and liabilities — and "forthwith" debated whether to make it public property.

Beyond those guarded portals had gathered another big crowd for the fourth day of open hearings on the affairs of J. P. Morgan and Company.

One plain clothes man of the local police was assigned directly to the task of following and guarding J. P. Morgan, senior partner, and another was assigned to Ferdinand Pecora, of the committee counsel.

The banking committee was called on to decide whether to publish the list of individuals with deposits in the Morgan firm of more than $100,000.

FRANCE URGED TO PAY DEBT

Associated Press
Paris, May 26.—President Roosevelt made payment of the $19,000,000 war debt interest due last December—essential condition of future settlement of the debts, Edouard Herriot, France's special envoy to the recent economic conversations in Washington, told the Chamber of Deputies in the course of a debate to-day.

"If France would agree to pay the December 15 installment," M. Herriot said, "Mr. Roosevelt told me negotiations could be undertaken immediately."

FOUR IN AUTO DIE IN CRASH

Car Driven on Crossing Before Freight Train in Ontario

Canadian Press
Arden, Ont., May 26.—Twistin' Devil's Elbow, tortuous crossing of the Canadian Pacific Railway near here to-day claimed four lives when a freight train struck a motor car. The victims were: Rev. J. A. Ledy of Marston, his wife and son, and A. B. Carson of Bancroft.

According to the train crew, the car simply rushed on the tracks in front of the train. The whistle had been blown for the crossing, they said, and the accident was unaccountable to them.

The train stopped and removed the debris from the engine, with the crew picking up the bodies and putting a section force in charge until the car could arrive.

The freight was moving slowly, the roadbed being a very twisting one in this vicinity.

Delegates Fish and Debate Fruit Plans

Committee Members of B.C. Fruit Growers' Association Go to Shuswap Lake to Wrestle With Marketing Schemes

Penticton, B.C., May 26.—The wise men of the Okanagan have fled into the wilderness. Here, far from the clank of the spraying machine and the agonized wails of the fruitgrower lamenting over last year's lack of adequate returns, they will meditate on the ills of the orchardist, and attempt to find some way of making everybody in the fruit industry happy.

Incidentally, they have taken along their well-tried rods and lures, so they may refresh tired brains and dull understanding by pitting them against the wily rainbow and Dolly Vardens of Little River in the intervals of wrestling with the knotty problems of rebates, export quotas and bulk shipments.

To be more explicit, early Wednesday morning, Major McGuire, manager of the 1933 apple cartel, the entire reorganization committee of the British Columbia Fruit Growers' Association, the editors of two Okanagan newspapers and representatives of several of the largest fruit shipping houses left their respective homes en route to Shuswap Lake and the Little River camp, where they will go into continuous session for five days, in an effort to evolve a workable scheme for the marketing of the 1933 apple crop.

BRIEF STRIKE AT COAL MINE

Blairmore, Alta., May 26.—Members of the Mine Workers' Union of Canada who went on strike yesterday at the Greenhill Mine of the West Canadian Coalfields Limited over dissatisfaction with work distribution had returned to their posts to-day.

The M.W.U. of C. members claimed the company was discriminating against their organization, giving preference to the home local when hiring new men. After a meeting, however, it was decided to return to work and confer further on the matter with company heads.

STOCK SALES ARE DECLARED FRAUD

New York Judge Makes Ruling Against Harriman Institution

New York, May 26.—Supreme Court Justice Bernard L. Shientag ruled today that Joseph W. Harriman and the Harriman National Bank had perpetrated a fraud on depositors when it sold them stock at $1,500 a share.

In accordance with the ruling, he awarded full judgment in the suit—the first of a number of the same kind—to Mrs. Margaret Singleton, who sued for the difference between the amount she had paid for two shares of the bank stock and what she alleges to be its true value, $200 a share.

The bank has been closed since the United States Bank holiday in March, and Harriman, its chairman, is under indictment for alleged false entries in the books of the institution.

The court found the bank had maintained a fictitious market for its stock to peg the price at $1,500, while selling it as an "investment" to depositors.

Harriman, who recently attempted suicide after wandering away from a nursing home, was not in court and was not represented on the first day of the trial.

Light Ray Is To Open Chicago World's Fair

Associated Press
Cambridge, Mass., May 26.—Some-where out in space, millions of miles away, a light ray is speeding toward the earth from the great star Arcturus. That light beam began its journey from Arcturus during the last world's fair in Chicago, forty years ago. For four decades it has been rushing through space at a rate of about 186,000 miles second.

Saturday night at 10 o'clock, eastern standard time, it will complete its journey of 234,627,840,000,000 miles (more or less). It will sweep into a great telescope and then, trip by trip, will fall on a sensitive photo-electric cell. Exactly at the stroke of ten, Dr. Harlow Shapley, director of the observatory, will pull a switch and the light beam on a second light-sensitive cell.

That delicate cell, incredibly sensitive to the action of even the feeblest ray of light, will set up an electric current which will be amplified by other electrical apparatus. A galvanometer, another sensitive electrical instrument, will receive this current and will swing an intense mirrored light beam on a second light-sensitive cell.

The current thus set up in the second photo-electric cell will be further built up and will speed out over telegraph wires to throw the switch opening the great fair. All this complicated procedure will take place in a small fraction of a second.

Other observatories co-operating are Yerkes, Allegheny and the University of Illinois. At those observatories, similar apparatus have been set up. Should clouds obscure Arcturus at one of the observatories the sky is almost sure to be clear at one or more of the other three stations.

MOTHER FACES MURDER CHARGE

Bodies of Three Children Buried at Framingham, Mass.

Associated Press
Framingham, Mass., May 26.—At approximately the same hour to-day the bodies of three little children were lowered into graves in St. George's Cemetery and their mother was arraigned in district court charged with brutally murdering them.

The children, Irene, Chester and Eugene Dycheski, aged eleven, seven and five years, respectively, were found in their home after fire had swept the dwelling early yesterday. Two of them were dead, ostensibly of burns. The third, Chester, died in the Framingham hospital later.

An autopsy revealed the children had been fatally beaten and the fire was incendiary. A fourth child, Paul, remained in critical condition to-day.

The mother, Mrs. Nellie Dycheski, who was found unconscious on the ground outside her home after the fire, was taken from the Framingham hospital to the courthouse in the company of police officers and a nurse.

When Judge Edward W. Blodgett asked her whether she was guilty or not guilty to the charge of murdering her children, she replied: "Yes, sir." She was ordered committed to await consideration of the grand jury.

NAZIS STAGE GREAT BOOK BURNING CAMPAIGN

Above is a picture, just received in Victoria, of an incident in the recent book destruction campaign carried on in Germany, which had its climax when Hitlerites, most of them young men, burned hundreds of thousands of volumes and manuscripts which Nazi leaders had declared inimical to the "new Germany." The photo was taken in Berlin while the Nazis were stripping a library of the works of Einstein, Upton Sinclair and many other writers prior to the great bonfire in that city.

WIDELY KNOWN SURGEON DIES

Dr. G. E. Armstrong, Professor at McGill, Montreal, Had War Record

Canadian Press
Montreal, May 27.—A physician of Canada-wide reputation, a university professor of great distinction and the possessor of an outstanding war record, Dr. George Eli Armstrong, died yesterday evening at the Royal Victoria Hospital here following an illness of ten weeks.

Dr. Armstrong was born at Leeds, Que., in 1884, the son of Rev. John Armstrong and his wife, the former Harriet M. Ives. For years Dr. Armstrong was chief surgeon at the Royal Victoria Hospital and professor of surgery at McGill University. He was a past president of the Canadian Medical Association, the American Surgical Association and the American College of Surgeons.

During the Great War he was attached to the advisory board of Imperial consulting surgeons with the rank of colonel.

His writings on medical subjects are numerous and brought him international recognition. The widow and three daughters, one of whom is Mrs. Richard Brown, of Altam, survive him.

The funeral will be held here tomorrow.

Other deaths reported in Canadian Press dispatches yesterday and to-day were:

North Battleford, Sask.—Samuel Wesley Huston, sixty, independent member of the Saskatchewan Legislature for the Battlefords.

Pittsburgh—Rev. Dr. Melvin G. Kyren, seventy-five, former moderator of the United Presbyterian Church in the United States and noted archaeologist.

STEEL LEADERS REPORT GAINS

Members of American Institute Pledge Aid For Roosevelt's Programme

New York, May 26.—From the leaders of their industry 1,000 members of the American Steel Institute to-day re-versed reports of improving conditions and pledges of co-operation for President Roosevelt's economy recovery programme.

"I feel better about our situation today than I have for many months," said Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation.

"The improvement which has come about in the last few weeks has given us all new hope."

Eugene G. Grace, president of the Bethlehem Corporation, reported: "The improvement in the steel business is being maintained. This is occurring without an improvement in the railroad and construction lines."

Discussions of the Roosevelt administration's industrial recovery bill were followed by a call for a meeting tomorrow to prepare plans for the steel industry could be adjusted to the measure if enacted.

Meanwhile, one of the administration spokesmen—Senator Robinson of Arkansas—outlined to the members another of the President's proposals, his suggestions for disarmament and world peace.

European governments had not interpreted the proposal correctly, Robinson said nothing was farther from the President's purpose "than to involve the United States in obligations to employ other than most force to preserve international peace."

U.S. FARM BOARD'S CAREER ENDED

Washington, May 26.—The United States Farm Board, created as a major lifeline for agriculture at the outset of the Hoover administration, passed out of existence to-day.

Its usable functions have been salvaged for merging into the new farm credit administration, run by Henry Morgenthau Jr., one of President Roosevelt's big units in the "new deal" for the farmers.

The Farm Board's great wheat and cotton price stabilizing adventure is over, and Morgenthau has estimated a loss to the government of $350,000,000 of the original $500,000,000 revolving fund.

BODY IN RIVER IS RECOVERED

Canadian Press
Nelson, B.C., May 26.—The body of Miss Jean Donaldson, twenty-two, daughter of Peter Donaldson, pioneer of Grand Forks, was recovered yesterday from the Kettle River, a mile east of Grand Forks. It was found in an automobile under twelve feet of water, into which the car, driven by Elmer Thompson, had plunged early Wednesday evening.

Two others in the car with Mr. Thompson escaped through an open door.

The car, which was in collision with another, plunged forty feet from the road into the water. A search was kept up all Wednesday night, but the car was not located until daylight yesterday.

Miss Donaldson was a popular member of the Grand Forks younger set and was prominent in musical circles.

LONG FEUD ENDS IN THREE DEATHS

Associated Press
San Jose, Cal., May 26.—A neighborhood quarrel of several years' standing ended here yesterday with three persons shot to death and another wounded.

Those killed were: Mrs. Jolito Passarelli, sixty; Luca Montano, sixty-two; and Luca Trapani, sixty-four. Gaetano Passarelli, the husband of Mrs. Passarelli, who was killed, was slightly wounded.

According to police, there had been bitter feeling between Trapani and the Passarellis for several years. Yesterday morning Mr. and Mrs. Passarelli stood in their front yard talking with Montano, owner of several houses across the street.

Suddenly Trapani emerged from his house next door, yelling and waving a heavy calibre gun. He opened fire and Mrs. Passarelli fell dead. Montano staggered a short distance down the street and dropped to the sidewalk, fatally wounded. One bullet grazed Passarelli's head. Trapani put the gun to his head and pulled the trigger, killing himself instantly.

Mrs. Montano, seated in a truck across the street, was a witness to the killing of her husband.

COST OF POWER STATED TOO HIGH

Associated Press
Okanagan, Wash., May 26.—Declaring he represented three or four hundred growers, members of the Okanagan Power Users' Association, Perd Schauf, prosecuting attorney and secretary of the organization, testified at a department of Public Works hearing here yesterday that "power cost is the last straw that is breaking the camel's back."

Schauf was the principal witness of the day in the state's hearing into rates and practices of the Washington Water Power Company.

Sales of two of Finland's largest co-operatives were greater last year than in 1931.

COMMENDATION FOR CONSTABLE

Canadian Press
Vancouver, May 26.—The coroner's jury which yesterday afternoon inquired into the death of Reginald McRae, twenty, shot in a pistol duel by City Constable D. M. Richardson on the night of May 18 following the hold-up of the Service Club on Robson Street, absolved the officer from blame and commended him for the manner in which he performed his duty. The jury returned an open verdict.

Constable Richardson, shot in the left leg by McRae during the battle, was brought to the inquest on a stretcher and testified.

McRae "came to his death from gunshot wounds received while running away from P.C. Richardson in performance of his duty," the verdict declared. "We absolve Constable Richardson from all blame and commend him for the manner in which he performed his duty."

JANITOR HELD ON MURDER CHARGE

Associated Press
Los Angeles, May 26.—A complaint formally charging him with the murder of Edwin Galt Patterson, general manager and assistant publisher of the Los Angeles Illustrated Daily News, has been filed against Edwin Davis, fifty-five-year-old former janitor at the newspaper office. He will be given preliminary hearing next Friday.

Testimony at the inquest developed that Patterson was fatally wounded by Davis when the former went to the aid of J. W. McGuire, another executive of the newspaper, who was threatened by Davis because of his discharge as janitor at the newspaper plant.

JUBILEE HOSPITAL TAG DAY TO-MORROW

To-morrow the Women's Auxiliary of the Provincial Royal Jubilee Hospital will hold its annual tag day and it is hoped the public of Victoria will respond as liberally as they have responded in other years.

It is well known that the funds raised by this yearly street collection are used for the purchase of various equipment and other necessities of hospital housekeeping for which it is impossible for the board of directors to find the money. The work the Women's Auxiliary has been doing since it came into existence thirty-three years ago is an important contribution to the highly-efficient service for which the hospital is noted and is a guarantee of the necessity of this appeal.

It should be remembered, too, that the women who compose this auxiliary give very liberally of their time and energy to a fine humanitarian cause. Hence, they deserve generous support.

NELL CLOVER AND ABSOLUTE TRUTH

That Nell Glover's progress in the Oxford Group Movement, of which she is one of the luminous evangelists, has been quite satisfactory to herself is indicated by her interesting and entertaining recital, at one of the Group public meetings here, of the way in which under her new spiritual orientation the inspiration she had received from the movement had effected the solution of some of her personal domestic problems. But the article on Victoria she recently contributed to a Yorkshire newspaper suggests that there is still spacious room for improvement. As a prominent figure in the Group she is supposed to have dedicated herself to the beatitude of "absolute truth," with several other equally fine objectives, but her article unhappily contains many things which not only are not absolute truth, but are not true even relatively, while its tone reflected a mental attitude which is neither Oxonian, courteous nor honest.

It is not true, as Nell writes, that Victoria is composed of a lot of "little Neros who fiddle while Rome is burning." Considering Nero's record and character this description would have slandered even Chicago, let alone Victoria. It is not true that visitors to Victoria must present credentials to be carefully checked. If it were, Nell Glover, who with her colleagues of the Oxford Group Movement received every courtesy here and did not object to getting what they wanted below cost, might not have had the opportunity of regaling her audience with a moving and entertaining account of her domestic difficulties and their triumphant settlement.

It is not true that our streets are the worst Nell ever has seen. They are not half as bad as the hideous flag-stone pavements in many of the communities in her own country. It is not true that women here do not know how to dress. Again the inevitable comparison suggests itself, with Nell Glover herself as a shining figure, but as we, also, are dedicated to some of the beatitudes of which she is one of the bright examples, we can not, charitably, pursue that subject any farther. It is not true that divorce cases are reported at length in the local press; that charming practice has been reserved for the press of the Old Country which details these disclosures of domestic infelicity in all their sticky and slushy detail. And where did she see fruit rotting on the trees in British Columbia in a well-known fruit-growing district so early in the spring?

And our stores—we mean shops—what community in the Old Country with a population of the same size as that of Victoria possesses anything like the retail establishments in this city? Or electric lights, or telephones or bath-rooms, or sewerage systems, not to speak of many other material manifestations of what we in this country regard as an elementary standard of living? The rooms of even the leading hotels in Birmingham or Leeds, which have ten times the population of Victoria, are devoid of these primary essentials. We presume Nell does not shave, but if she were a man she would not have found it necessary, while here, to import warm water in a pitcher from the kitchen, as she would have had to do in nine-tenths of the larger cities of the Old Country.

Undoubtedly in Victoria, as in most other places, there is much that can be fairly criticized; we do and have a lot of foolish things. Among them is that unrestrained hospitality which fuses over people from abroad who in their own habitat never have had the opportunity of differentiating between a modern bath-tub and a frying-pan. We will wager that Nell's Yorkshire hometown has no electric lights, few telephones, few modern toilets, few good shops, narrow, winding streets, paved with flag-stones, and numerous unfortunate women—not in the Oxford Group Movement—who wear shawls around their heads and to whom a new bonnet is an unexampled luxury. After all, "absolute truth" is a jewel, but Nell has not found it yet. And what about "absolute love"? Oh, Nellie!

OUR HIGH PROTECTIONISTS HAVE CHANGED THEIR MINDS

Canadian high protectionists are not consistent in putting all the blame on the United States for leading the world into the hopeless tariff mess in which it now finds itself. In most political campaigns in this country during the last eight years, not excluding the provincial campaign in this province in 1928, they held up the tariff policy of the neighboring republic as a model for us, as a system which would bring Canada additional prosperity if she would only adopt it.

An eastern Canadian Conservative journal says the United States made the mistake of thinking that it "could sell to all the nations and buy from them only such materials as it could not itself grow or produce." Canadians with a retentive memory, however, will recall that in the summer of 1930, protectionist speakers toured the Dominion advocating this very policy and continued to believe in it for some time after that contest, indeed, until within the last year. In the interim, Canada has tried to do all the selling and as little of the buying as possible. That was the system we were told would peg the prosperity we were enjoying three years ago and increase it as the system continued to operate. Yet Canada still has the highest tariff of any country in the world.

Times have changed. Only a week or so ago, Dr. Manion, Minister of Railways and Canals in the Bennett government, was talking about the possibility of "going crazy over tariffs." The Prime Minister himself has been to Washington with the sole object of trying to clear the way for the restoration of a billion dollars' worth of trade between Canada and the United States, the greater part of which was sacrificed on the altar of high protection. But this country followed the example which it declared a model—and is still paying a heavy price.

A ONCE SPECTACULAR FIGURE PASSES IN POVERTY

Death rang down the curtain to-day on the eventful career of Horatio Bottomley, once millionaire sportsman, politician, financier, and then convict. He was seventy-three years old and only recently he applied for his old-age pension of ten shillings a week—normally two and one-half dollars! Strangely enough, when he was independent Liberal member for South Hackney in the House of Commons he used all the eloquence at his command in support of the passage of this social legislation.

Bottomley's crash from eminence in British politics, finance, and journalism came in 1922 when he was sentenced to seven years' imprisonment for converting to his own use $25,000 of funds he had helped to raise for war purposes. He served five years and came out of Maidstone prison a broken man. The voice which helped to induce thousands of Britons to join the colors during the early days of the war was as broken as his spirits and his health. The man who exposed Bottomley's frauds offered to help him, but his reply was—and he maintained this attitude to the end—"let no man pity me."

Britain never knew a more accomplished "lay lawyer" than Horatio Bottomley. He did battle in the courts many times and his exchanges with the best legal minds of the country became famous. He used "John Bull," the weekly he founded nearly thirty years ago, to champion the cause of the "under dog" and not a few injustices and scandals were uncovered in the columns of his paper. He drew attention to the plight of discharged soldiers after the war and got conditions rectified in many particulars.

There was much good in Bottomley. But he fell by the wayside—the price of his own misdeeds. Since he came out of prison, in 1927, life must have been something of a nightmare to him. He probably welcomed the end.

ANOTHER ARGUMENT IN FAVOR OF NEW TRADING DEAL

An intimation comes from Washington that the Roosevelt administration favors the extension for another year of the import duty on lumber, as well as on other commodities in which Canada is interested. The reason given is that the treasury requires the revenue.

This is not good news for British Columbia. It had been hoped that the tariff of one dollar a thousand on unmanufactured lumber and the three-dollars-a-thousand import duty would at least be cut to one dollar in all, as it was before the import duty was imposed more than a year ago.

Under the old dollar tariff, nearly eighty per cent of British Columbia's lumber exports found a market in the neighboring republic. When the total import went up to four dollars, however, shipments from this country practically ceased. As far as revenue from tariff and import duty on Canadian lumber is concerned, therefore, one would think it would be negligible.

The dispatch to which we have referred is another argument in favor of speed in negotiating a new trading deal between Canada and the United States.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

BRITAIN'S TREATIES
 The New York Sun

If the newspaper reports from Washington which depict statesmen at the national capital as astonished by the trade treaties Great Britain is concluding are based on fact they reveal an amazing condition of inattention among those who are assumed to be officially alert to foreign affairs. Immediately after the Ottawa agreements were approved, the British Government began negotiations with nations not within the empire to adjust trade relations with them to harmonize with the Ottawa bargains. This was done without concealment, subtlety, or secrecy; the denunciation of the Anglo-Russian trade agreement was incidental to this process.

So far as British negotiations with Argentina are concerned, the British interest in that country as creditor, customer and purveyor is large and has been large for years, and the fact that bargaining was in progress between the nations was as well known as anything could be. At the moment the conclusion of the Anglo-Argentine agreement seems to have jarred Washington susceptibilities. If it has, those susceptibilities are likely to be jarred a good many times, for it is improbable that Great Britain will abandon its policy of looking out for its own interests.

By H. R. W.

JUST AHEAD

PROFESSOR JULIAN HUXLEY, the eminent British biologist, has looked into the future and disclosed what the world will be like in fifty years from now. The picture, though a few readers of this column will live to see it in reality, is interesting and rather ghastly. Professor Huxley foresees a world of iron-clad socialism, of internationalism, of smooth organization under great industrial units. Men will work four and a half hour a day. They will be assured of constant employment, of ease during sickness and old age. Apparently there will be no hazard in life, no excitement, no adventure. There won't be much religion or belief in anything higher than the government and the great industrial groups.

Only a few ignorant souls will persist in worshipping God instead of worshipping Man. Birth control will have made such strides that the white population will have fallen and the white nations will be trying to make the yellow and black follow their example, lest the latter overrun the world. A few backward spirits will be urging people to disregard the will of the government and have big families as in the old days, but no one will pay any attention to them. Houses will all be made in factories, and a man will buy one as he buys a certain make of car now, according to his taste. There will be endless jungles of motor houses and Chevrolet houses and Plymouth houses, and a few Packards here and there—all the same, inside and out; and men will be very like their houses inside and out. You see, therefore, how much we have to be thankful for. We might have been born into a chaotic world when men will have achieved civilization. How fortunate we are to live in the dear old Depression.

OUR SYSTEM

AFTER MANY barbed pleasantries between eminent statesmen, who used to sit together in the Legislature, after Mr. Bower has said that the government doesn't know what it is doing, and after Mr. Pooley has replied that Mr. Bower has forgotten everything he used to know and ain't what he used to be—all this, it seems clear that the Hon. Mr. Dennies is legally minister of labor in the Tolmie Government, that he will draw his salary after the first of June and that he will undertake official duties of great concern to the public.

Now here you have a perfect picture in miniature of the curious contradictions, and the smooth perfection of our system of government. Theoretically, under the British system, the government is responsible during every hour of the twenty-four to the people through their representatives in Parliament, whereas the United States government, elected for four years, is responsible to no one. But, as the Denies case reminds us, a man can be called into the public eye in a moment, and an important department can turn the whole state upside down if he wants to, without ever being elected, without the public, as in Mr. Dennies' case, ever having heard of him before.

There is nothing, indeed, to prevent the prime minister calling in ten men who the public has never heard of before and letting them run the country as long as he likes; except that they can't sit in the Legislature. But who wants to sit there anyway? Until it was removed a few years ago, a section of the law compelling the cabinet ministers to sit in the Legislature was repealed, and the whole basis of our responsible government has had to be interestingly re-arranged. A party convention elects at least interested in such things there is nothing to worry about.

OLD MYTH
 ANYWAY, the idea that the public has any complete control over the choice of men to run the country has long ago disappeared among intelligent persons. A party convention elects a party leader, probably by a few votes, most likely as a compromise in the familiar smoke-filled hotel-bedroom. The public has no say in the matter whatever. A few hard-boiled politicians arranged that. Then the public has to make this fellow prime minister or his even feller. If it votes for this fellow, probably it does so chiefly because it just dislikes the other fellow. This fellow, having become prime minister, then takes whom he pleases into his cabinet. The public has no say in that either. Thereupon, by a splendid miracle, you have a cabinet which is sanctimoniously supposed to represent the reasoned judgment and the complete will of the electors, who never can remember all the ministers' names. Many a premier, indeed, is simply elected by a party caucus, and is still supposed to be the choice of the electors. If it hasn't his name before. Still, no one has been able to think of a better system so far and Mr. Bower oughtn't to pick on Mr. Dennies that way.

GRISLY NOTION
 IN THE UNITED STATES, where they think up the most abominable ideas, they have started to make talkies of university students as they that the students may see themselves speak and act in the class room, so as others see them. For the first time in history the talkie makes it possible for the young person to realize just what he is like. This is an abominable idea indeed. When it is spread 'when all the young realize just what they are like, when they have heard themselves speak and seen their own posture and manners, the world will be peopled with a hopeless, disillusioned generation.

It is a terrible experience to see yourself on the screen. It makes you want to go away into a corner and cry. I once got into a news reel by mistake, away out at the edge. At first I wondered who that ridiculous figure could be and it was some moments before I realized the hideous truth. It was quite hideous. I have never had much respect for the writer of this column since then, and have avoided society altogether. Up to that point I was really quite a cheerful, human fellow. It was after hearing my voice on a dictaphone that I resolved never to go into politics or any place where I should have to make speeches. The loss to the country is incalculable.

When I look at the talkies our most distinguished statesmen I wonder that, on seeing themselves, they don't abandon the world altogether and go and live somewhere in a cave. Man's greatest strength is his uncanny ability to see himself as he wants to. Once he sees himself as he is, a man who has any self-respect won't want to go on living at all. Our statesmen must be of a different order. Despite the talkies they still go on.

DETERMINED MAN

PREMIER BENNETT, a man of unshakable purpose, who evidently purposes to become noble before he dies, has discovered the remarkable fact that the King is not bound to refrain from bestowing titles of nobility on Canadians. This, says Mr. Bennett, is the King's prerogative and no more resolution of Parliament can alter it. How fortunate it is, therefore, that there is a King in London who will accept the undoubted will of the Canadian people, as expressed by Parliament, even if the prime minister of the country won't. But what I can't understand is—when a man has become prime minister, what possible additional honor can the King confer on him? Becoming a lord is such a terrific anti-climax. Besides, in these times it would enhance a man of becoming quickly an ex-prime minister.

Twenty-five Years Ago To-day

THE VICTORIA DAILY TIMES,
 MAY 26, 1908

From The Times Files
 Weather forecast—Victoria and vicinity: Light to moderate winds, fine and warm to-day, Wednesday and probably Thursday.

Victoria has always regarded Empire Day as her own. In former years, when the event marked the birthday of the Queen, the celebration was inaugurated. On the North Pacific Coast the day has, from long usage, come to be recognized as distinctly Victoria's. The arrival of the United States fleet in Seattle, it was thought, would this year prevent many from coming, and would also perhaps attract a large number from Victoria, especially as very cheap rates were offered. But these fears were all idle. Victorians have always been loyal to their own city, and yesterday was no exception. Practically all stayed at home, and every citizen turned in as in past years, co-operating in every way possible to make the celebration a grand success.

The Victoria Day parade, led by the Fifth Regiment band, started in a long line yesterday morning at the apartment house of the city, and wound its way along Yates and Government Streets to Beacon Hill Park, where the judging took place in a roped-off reserve.

From 8 o'clock till midnight to-night the Gorge will be the scene of a water carnival, which will bring to a close the Victoria Day celebrations for the year. The sight to be presented to-night is already assured as one of the splendor and brilliance from the information to hand of the number who have signified their intention of taking part, and from the manner they have put into it, which really matters.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

WHAT LIFE IS
 So this is what life is, and not as we thought.
 A web of beauty, where gladness is caught.
 A dream, spun of rainbow, where we might love
 Through a season of rapture, an idyl of love!

So this is what life is, a slow, up-hill climb,
 Which seems without meaning in reason or rhyme.
 A school where the lessons come often too
 And the pupils, once eager, grow dull as they wait!

Yes, this is what life is, a climb and a wait,
 But with strength gained by effort, and truth in each rule.
 With vision made clear and with resolve
 That is sometimes worth more than the bright bloom of fame.

Ah, this is what life is, unfulfilled through years,
 Which teaches the value of laughter and tears.
 A program, a journey, a hope and a goal
 Whose purpose is allegory: the growth of a soul!

KRUSCHEN GAVE HIM HEALTH AND VITALITY

This account of a veteran's "come-back" is best given in his own words: "Some three years ago I was suddenly afflicted with a swelling of my right knee, the pains being so severe that I could not walk. I had to crawl upstairs to bed, and then could get no sleep on account of the pain. Having led an athletic life, this was a severe blow to me. I tried all sorts of treatments, but with small results. Then I decided to try Kruschen. I took a dose in my coffee every morning for a fortnight, and, finding a small improvement, I have continued doing so ever since. "I am happy to state that I can now walk miles without difficulty. As a matter of fact, I recently entered a race for Veterans over 40, and, in spite of my 61 years, 'walked away with it' in good time. That was my first race for 35 years. Now I am feeling fine, and just off for a walking holiday. Kruschen Salts have done me so much good that I recommend them for all sorts of bodily ills."—W. H. D.

H. Despart Twigg, M.P.P., Cautions Kinsman Against Premature Prosperity

"Do not attempt to gain prosperity too quickly. Take things slowly but surely." With that admonition H. Despart Twigg, M.P.P., pointed to what he considered the main danger before the young men of Canada today in an address before the Kinsmen Club at the Empress Hotel yesterday evening.

The young men of Canada and British Columbia had little need to fear the future. Just as the country had come through the Great War it was coming through the trying times of the last few months. Signs were definitely hopeful now, he said. The speaker urged his hearers to help their less fortunate brothers and to encourage those who believed any form of government would be preferable to the one now in existence. The clubmen would do well to adhere to the ideals of Canadian and British traditions, he said.

BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION
The function celebrated the thirtieth birthday of the Kinsman movement in Canada and was observed here with an elaborate programme, which included the reading of a message from the national president, A. Douglas Bell, vocal selections and other entertainment features under the direction of Stanley Miles and the reading of greetings from Hal Rogers, founder of the club, and Roy Browne, district governor. Invitations were received from the Pacific Northwest Library Association to attend its convention in the Empress Hotel next week and from Dr. J. Murray Campbell, president of the Chatham Club, to attend the national convention. Archie W. Smith, president of the local club, stated his intention of attending a Rotary luncheon next week at which officers of that club will be installed.

EX-SERVICE MEN WILL MEET HERE

Ex-service men from Vancouver Island and centre will hold a reunion in Victoria on August 4, and plans are now being advanced by the Canadian Legion for the gathering, according to a report at the district council meeting yesterday evening. It is expected that 1,800 men will attend. The reunion is being planned in conjunction with the convention of the Provincial Command of the Legion, which meets at the same time.

A parade to the Cathedral and a memorial service at the Parliament Buildings will be included in the official side of the programme, while a banquet and smoking concert in the Armories will be among the social functions.

WOULD DISMISS MARRIED WOMEN

Saanich Ratepayers Protest Against Family Drawing Dual Salaries

Reiterating their stand on the employment of married women teachers, ratepayers representing the Saanich Central Ratepayers' Association, yesterday evening interviewed the municipal board, urging upon the trustees the dismissal of these employees.

The delegation referred to instances where they claimed married teachers could be ably supported by their husbands and did not think that their employment was justifiable when dual salaries were being received in the household.

P. V. Hobbs, chairman of the board, pointed out that regulations issued by the Department of Education governed the board, to a certain extent, in employing teachers. Practically all were taken on unmarried, he said, and they could not be dismissed without sufficient cause.

The delegation was headed by T. L. Sargeant and E. Wilkinson, presidents of the respective associations. Both were assured by the board of every support in efforts to have the act amended to this effect.

REDUCES ENGINE WASTE

You have been offered "mileage" gasolines, "anti-knock" gasolines, and "quick-starting" gasolines. Here is a combination of all three. The three pure types of energy from the very heart of petroleum, with all the wasteful parts discarded.

QUICK ENERGY—For starting, pick-up, changes in motor speed. Very important to every driver. But only one of three essentials.

POWER ENERGY—Even the premium-priced fuels cannot excel Shell 3-energy in mileage, in power.

Compare any fuel with Shell 3-energy gasoline—regardless of price. But mileage isn't the whole story.

ANTI-KNOCK ENERGY—To turn power into a smooth, steady flow. To reduce engine strain and wear; to give you quiet, knock-free performance on the hills.

Look for all three of these energies in Shell. Compare it with the so-called special "power-fuels," the "super-anti-knock" gasolines and featured "starting" varieties. Here is a gasoline that does the entire job better!

TEXTBOOKS DENOUNCED

Education Minister's Ban on U.S. Volumes in Vancouver Supported

Canadian Legion Council Protests Books Which "Foster Americanism"

Efforts of the Vancouver School Board to use alleged United States textbooks in public schools in the mainland centre were denounced by the District Council of the Canadian Legion yesterday evening, and action of the Minister of Education in banning the books from the schools was supported.

The books dealt with are The Silent Reader and Carpenter's New Geographical Reader. Extracts from both volumes were read to support the contention they dealt far more thoroughly with American history than with Canadian history. The latter book, it was pointed out that only twenty-four pages were devoted to Canadian facts, the remainder of the volume dealing with historical and geographical information of United States.

Victoria is described as a small city on a small island near the south end of British Columbia that looks much like Seattle. The book also states that Vancouver is on Vancouver Island.

WAR FACTS PROTESTER
Particular protest was aroused among the legion members by quotations in The Silent Reader, allegedly made by General Pershing, which described how the United States forces had won the war. The following question, which appears in this reader, was denounced as being trivial and of no beneficial value to school pupils: "On what ship did General Pershing go to France and who went with him?"

Little was said at the meeting concerning the action which had promoted the Vancouver board's purchasing of the books, but it was understood that the board had at one time taken a large stock of the volumes in, and now, at a time when finances were strained, it was trying to bring them into the school curriculum.

PASS RESOLUTION
In protest, the council passed the following resolution:

"The Victoria and District Council of the Canadian Legion, B.E.L., strongly endorses the action of the action of the Minister of Education in banning from the schools of the province such books as Silent Reader and Carpenter's New Geographical Reader and other books of that type, which set out in their prefaces that they have been printed for the express purpose of 'fostering and stimulating patriotic Americanism in the minds of the pupils'; and will support him in every effort to foster and stimulate loyalty and patriotism to Canada and the Empire, and friendship for the people of the United States of America."

Four doctors are engaged in aerial medical work in the interior of Australia. They fly to homesteads hundreds of miles from a town when called by telephone or telegram.

New York, May 26.—Statesmanship apparently has reached the stage where—well, at least, statesmanship has reached the stage.

For in the office of John Golden, the producer, are scripts for a musical play which, when presented, may be billed something like this: "Hodanzo—Written by the Minister to Paraguay—Music by the Secretary of the Treasury."

The story of it goes back many years to the time when Mr. Post Wheeler was editor of a New York newspaper and a close friend of Golden. The latter, incidentally, used to sell poetry to the editor when it was good enough, which was seldom. Wheeler deserted journalism and entered the U.S. diplomatic corps in 1906, becoming secretary to the American Embassy in Tokyo, and later counselor there. During his stay he collected a number of Japanese folk tales and put them into a book. Golden read it and suggested that some of the chapters be dramatized. He read the subsequent dramatization, and suggested that it ought to be set to music.

And there the matter rested, while Wheeler went from one post to another in the embassies in Sweden and Great Britain, finally to be named, in 1929, Minister to Paraguay. Golden, though, had dinner with William H. Woodin one night and mentioned the play as an item of interest to one who had studied and written Oriental music. Woodin took Wheeler's script home with him. A couple of weeks later he invited Golden to his house, where he revealed that he had written a complete musical score, and had even hired a ten-piece orchestra to play it for the producer's consideration. The verdict was enthusiastically favorable. "Hodanzo," which means marriage, an annulment and a retirement to her farm, is planning a concert comeback. . . . Arturo Toscanini begs his friends not to invite any other guests when he goes to dine at their houses. The other evening he had dinner (alone, he thought) with the Samuel Chotzinoffs. But Elza Helfetz Stone and Richard Manson were there too. They masqueraded as the maid and the butler—and very satisfactorily—just to be near the great man.

OPERATIC DELIGHTS
Grace notes: Rosa Ponselle of the Metropolitan designs most of her own clothes, likes to cook, hides a bicycle on her penthouse roof. . . . Lily Pons delights in looking at flowers, but can't stand them in the same room with her. . . . Thinks they absorb all the oxygen. . . . Marlon Talley, after a four-year absence which included a marriage, an annulment and a retirement to her farm, is planning a concert comeback. . . . Arturo Toscanini begs his friends not to invite any other guests when he goes to dine at their houses. The other evening he had dinner (alone, he thought) with the Samuel Chotzinoffs. But Elza Helfetz Stone and Richard Manson were there too. They masqueraded as the maid and the butler—and very satisfactorily—just to be near the great man.

MIXED STRAINS
Amateurs all: Hendrik Van Loon, the geographically-minded author, plays the violin. . . . Ethel Barrymore is such an accomplished pianist that she once planned a concert career. . . . Novelist Fannie Hurst plays the piano and is married to a professional musician, Jacques Danielson. . . . Kenneth Murphree, wealthy New York architect, composes music for the annual Beaux Arts ball, and usually conducts the orchestra. . . . And Ernst Lubitsch, who plays the piano, confesses a secret ambition to conduct a symphony. . . . Neysa McMein paid her way through the Chicago Art Institute by hanging the ivories behind five-and-ten store music counters.

A California railroad runs across the tops of trees over a deep ravine near the coast. A bridge of stone or iron was too costly to build, so the trees were utilized: The top branches were sawed off and the timbers for the line were laid on the stumps. The bridge is quite safe.

EXCHEQUER COURT OPENS JUNE 9

Sessions to Settle Dispute Over Pier Island Rental For Nudist Penal Colony

Plans have been completed by Sheriff Goggin for the opening of sessions here of the Exchequer Court of Canada at 11 o'clock Friday, June 9. The court is coming from Ottawa to adjudicate the dispute between the heirs of Col. J. S. Harvey and the Dominion Government over what the government should pay for Pier Island, which has been taken as the site of the Doukhobor penal colony. The government has offered to pay $400 a year rent for the island, but the heirs, through C. H. O'Halloran, their counsel, claim this amount is not enough because of the great value of the island for scenic and tourist purposes, and because of the deterioration in reputation it will suffer through association with the Doukhobor nudists.

Gordon A. Cameron will conduct the government's side of the case. It is expected that Mr. Justice McLean of Ottawa will take the session here.

The sittings here are expected to last for three or four days, and arrangements are being made for the court and attendants to make a trip to the island.

Rain Fails to Dampen Ardor of Cumberland People, But Sports Postponed

Cumberland, May 26.—Dripping skies greeted May 24 here and put a damper on all plans for the day, with the result that the major part of the day's sports events were put off until June 3, except the dancing competitions which were held in the Band Hall. The crowning of the May Queen, Miss Thelma Frelone, was also carried out. The parade was held as arranged and was very good considering the weather, especially the children's section. A large crowd turned out and attended the crowning afterward. The Cumberland band and the Courtenay Fire Department headed the procession, but owing to the rain the band had to rely entirely on its brasses. In addition to the May Queen's float, which was the main attraction, there were several decorated cars, one with a Maypole and kewpie dancers on its rose-decked hood, and another a novel turnout representing a log cabin. Another pretty car was decorated in yellow and green and the Wanderers Football Club was represented by a car gaily decorated in the club colors. A well-designed advertising float was entered by the Walker Bros., radio dealers. The school children's entries were numerous. Outstanding groups represented Marocchi's Bakery, B.C. products, Comox Coal, Dickens's characters, Alice in Wonderland, and the Bevan School, en masse, represented the logging industry and in its many phases. The Comox Logging Company provided a truck decorated with fir boughs.

Immediately after the parade reached the grounds the May Queen of 1932, Miss Alice Brown, crowned her successor, Queen Thelma, who was attended by Miss Marie Buchanan and Miss Irene O'Brien, and two small pages, Eddie Williams and Louis Witt. The royal party was attractive and colorful, the queen a dainty figure in white, the maids of honor in pastel-colored frocks and the little pages in royal blue velvet. The rain held off a little for the crowning, but began to fall heavily during the dancing of the maypole, which was perfectly done by two groups of children.

PARADE WINNERS
The parade winners were as follows:
Best decorated automobile—Mr. Gordon Thomas of Royston.
Best advertising float, representing a district business—Walker Bros.
Best comic group—Roy Howan, Harold Conrod, Tommy Conrod.
Best decorated bicycle—Gordon Ledington.
Best character representation—A. Buttress and party.
Best Comox individual—Miss Nora Lloyd.

As there were no entries for the best decorated float, the $20 prize was divided between Bevan School, representing Comox logging, and Cumberland schoolchildren, representing Comox coal. A special prize was awarded to Bobby High as an "Employed." The prize for the best decorated group, Grade 6 and up, went to Miss Gallivan's class, representing characters from Dickens, and for the best decorated group from Grade 5 down, Miss Carey's class, representing B.C. products.

AMATEUR DANCING

The amateur dancing competitions were accorded undivided attention as the only event on the programme to be held in the afternoon. The dancing was under the management of Wm. Henderson Jr., who had obtained the services of Mrs. T. McMullin, formerly Miss Florence Cameron, of Vancouver, a well-known dancer, to judge the events. W. Stewart piped for the dancing. In addition to the competitions there was exhibition dancing by Miss Kay Moore's pupils, a popular number being the performance of the baby class in the Highland Fling.

The prize winners for the competition dances were: Highland Fling, twelve and under, 1 Doreen Henderson, 2 Nettie Gibson, 3 Senn Truibhas, twelve to sixteen years, 1 Wilda Handlen, 2 Doris McDonald; sword dance, 12 and under, 1 Doreen Henderson, 2 Georgina Moore; reel of Tulloch, twelve to sixteen years, 1 Doris McDonald, 2 Wilda Handlen; Irish Jig, twelve and under, 1 Doreen Henderson, 2 Lauren Frelone; hornpipe, 1 Doris McDonald, 2 Wilda Handlen; service fling, 1 Edith Porritt, 2 Kathleen Porritt. Members of the baby class, Elsie Dakers, Hazel Briggs, Brenda Tipping, Joan Auchincloss, Shirley Stevens.

Movie studios are able to save $120,000 a year through recovering silver from the film fixing baths and a like amount through restoration of the hypo bath itself.

The distance from the earth to the most distant known nebula is 900,000,000,000,000 miles or about 140,000,000 light-years. This is the greatest length ever actually measured.

To cope with the demands of Victoria investors, following the financial revival, H. E. QUEEN MARY HAS BIRTHDAY

Her Majesty Sixty-six Today; Family Celebration at Palace

London, May 26 (By Thomas T. Chapman, Canadian Press Staff Writer).—Queen Mary to-day celebrated the sixty-sixth anniversary of her birthday, and messages of congratulation poured into Buckingham Palace from all over the world. The Prince of Wales, the Duke and Duchess of York, the Princess Royal, Prince George and the Queen's grandchildren brought presents and a family luncheon was held for thirty guests.

The Royal Horse Artillery fired a salute of twenty-one guns in Hyde Park. Ships of the Royal Navy dressed in flag and flew from all public buildings.

There appeared little likelihood any special celebration would be planned for "Their Majesties' ruby wedding." June 7, forty years ago the King, then the Duke of York, and the Queen, known as Princess May, were married. They were practically strangers to the public, but the marriage was approved as a departure from the Victorian custom under which members of the British royal house usually married members of continental royal families.

I.O.D.E. Service To Be Held Sunday

BISHOP MANNING'S DAUGHTER WEDS

Young ladies of the Junior Women's Auxiliary, members of the Daughters of the Empire, and representatives of the Women's Canadian Club will assist the members of the Women's Auxiliary of Royal Jubilee Hospital at their annual tag day to-morrow. Mrs. E. S. Hasell, who is visiting in the city, and who was the auxiliary's secretary for many years in the earlier days, and also initiated the first tag day over a quarter of a century ago, will take some share in the day's collections.

MUCH FREE SERVICE

In view of the extra burdens falling upon the hospital at this time, due to the increasing number of patients to whom hospital service is given free, the Women's Auxiliary is making an appeal for an exceptionally generous contribution. The smallest amount is welcome. It is also hoped that those friends of the hospitals who take this opportunity of making a yearly gift will repeat their contribution this year.

The income of the auxiliary is derived from the tag day, the annual fee of two dollars from its three hundred members, and from the donations at the linen shower held in October.

DOING FINE WORK

Since its organization over thirty-three years ago the Women's Auxiliary has been a veritable fairy godmother to the sick people of the city. During the course of its history it has raised large sums for building purposes and has continuously supplied the necessities of hospital housekeeping. Its special care has been the maternity ward, which it equipped in 1910, and towards which it gave more than $10,000 at the erection of the new building in 1922. Once and again it has come to the assistance of the board of directors with handsome cheques.

Working in close co-operation with the lady superintendent, the Auxiliary, through its board of twenty-five members, furnishes a stream of household supplies for the wards. Sheets for baby beds, dressing gowns and slippers for the old men and old women's wards, nursery towels and curtain material have been among the articles provided during the past year. The Christmas tree also comes from its beneficent aid. Some twenty members meet nightly to sew.

Hat Fashionable Again After Use Quarter Century

Store Takes It as Model After Woman Wore It Twenty-five Years

Associated Press
Macon, Ga., May 25.—The pendulum always swings back and women's fashion is no exception.

Twenty-five years ago Mrs. B. E. Jones bought a modish hat in a store here and has worn it ever since, irrespective of changing fancies. The other day she was in the same store and the manager of the millinery department waxed rapturous about her hat's style and begged her to sell it so they could model others like it. His plea fell on deaf ears.

Finally she compromised with the store giving her a new hat on condition she lent them her old one long enough to copy it.

JUBILEE TAG DAY SATURDAY

Hospital W.A. to Make Appeal to Aid Humanitarian Work Among Sick

Nurses from the hospital wards, young ladies of the Junior Women's Auxiliary, members of the Daughters of the Empire, and representatives of the Women's Canadian Club will assist the members of the Women's Auxiliary of Royal Jubilee Hospital at their annual tag day to-morrow. Mrs. E. S. Hasell, who is visiting in the city, and who was the auxiliary's secretary for many years in the earlier days, and also initiated the first tag day over a quarter of a century ago, will take some share in the day's collections.

TO PLAY TO-NIGHT FOR BEAUX-ARTS

Mrs. Marjorie Angus Hansen, who will appear in a two-plate recital with Miss Margaret Van Voigt, under the auspices of the Beaux-Arts at the Empress Hotel this evening at 8.30 o'clock. They will be assisted by Miss Beatrice Hicks, coloratura soprano.

ABLE TO REST

With portable dressing rooms on the set, they are able to get their rest still be at hand whenever needed. Dressing rooms also save time when several changes of costume are required in a single day.

Ordinarily maids and valets at studios are the best to be found. They must assume many duties in addition to assisting their masters and mistresses to dress. Personal conferences and telephone calls on the set are discouraged. Hence the maids and valets must keep social and business contacts open for their bosses.

They deliver phone messages, make important phone calls, arrange details for parties, and a dozen other things.

"Religion and Life Inseparable," Says Dominion President in Toronto

W.M.S. Annual Meeting Condemns Cigarette Habit in Young People

Canadian Press
Toronto, May 26.—Mrs. A. D. Miller, Edmonton, president of the Alberta conference branch, will preside at today's opening session of the Dominion Board of the Women's Missionary Society of the United Church of Canada, convening here in its eighth annual meeting.

Mrs. Anson Spotton, executive mission secretary, will present her report and missionaries present will be introduced.

In the afternoon Mrs. C. H. Dickson, Regina, president of the Saskatchewan conference, will open the meeting and the speakers will be Mrs. H. M. Forbes, Mrs. R. G. Dingman and Miss Evelyn Mitchell.

"It is time we realized that religion and life go together and that we must work now, not one individually, but corporate as a society, looking to God for help," Mrs. C. R. Crowe, president of the Dominion Board, told the delegates at last night's meeting. Many great heads are confronting a troubled world at the present time, she submitted.

Education to impress the younger boys and school girls with the evil results, physically and socially, resulting from the cigarette habit, was stressed in the meeting yesterday.

The London branch, which asked that the parents insist on education in day and Sunday schools on the evil of cigarettes, directed attention to the dangers of alcohol as a beverage.

Impossible to Balance Budget, Minister Tells Conservative Women

Hon. J. W. Jones, Minister of Finance, reviewed the reductions made in the 1933-34 budget, as compared with the previous year's expenditure of $18,478,407, and declared that it was impossible to balance the budget under present conditions, in an interesting address on provincial finances before the Women's Conservative Association yesterday evening.

Emphasizing that taxes cannot be reduced—until revenue exceeds expenditure, Mr. Jones, with the aid of charts, showed the source of the $7,420,518 reduction effected last year, as follows: Department of Education, cut from $4,647,489 to $3,108,084; the Attorney-General's Department, from $2,216,303 to $1,312,721; the Provincial Secretary's Department, from $4,453,261 to $3,011,216; the Public Works Department, from $3,580,311 to $1,791,261; and the Department of Lands, from $1,375,559 to $623,974.

The increase in the provincial debt was referred to. This had increased in twelve years by $96,000,000, or approximately $8,000,000 a year; $19,000,000 of this had been expended in roads, bridges, etc.; $6,000,000 in unemployment relief; $3,500,000 in public buildings, so that the money had not been actually squandered. Declaring that the province to-day was borrowing money at a cheaper rate than in 1918, the speaker expressed the belief that the government would be able to borrow money in the next few months as low as 5 per cent.

Replying to criticism about the new taxes, Mr. Jones reminded his audience that there were only about three of them, the meal tax, to aid the hospitals and the tax on gasoline and motor vehicles to help in the upkeep of the roads.

It was feasible at the present time to balance the budget, said the minister, even a national bank could not cure the present condition.

H. Despard Twigg and Reginald Hayward, members for Victoria, also briefly addressed the meeting, which was presided over by Mrs. Roberts, president, Miss C. Dennison, contralto, accompanied by Laverton Parkington, contributed a vocal solo.

Sister MARY'S KITCHEN

"HOW MANY WILL A POUND SERVE?" THESE ANSWERS WILL PROVE HANDY

By SISTER MARY
The custom of selling fruit and vegetables by the pound is becoming nation-wide. For some time the Western States have found this method of marketing to be most practical and now throughout the country the housewife buys her vegetables and fruits by the pound.

The weight of many fruits and vegetables is an aid in determining the quality of the commodity. Small heads of lettuce or cabbage are heavy if solid and firm through the centre. Heavy oranges and grapefruit are sure to be juicy. Fresh products are heavier than wilted ones. Also fewer large apples or potatoes fit into a measure than small ones. One-half bushel of potatoes weigh less than its prescribed number of pounds. This means a distinct saving in buying by weight.

"Bunches" and "baskets" are as variable as the "teacupful" and the "five-cent-worth" of the past and it is only when a common unit of measurement is applied to fruits and vegetables that prices and quality are easily comparable.

The following list will help the housewife in calculating the amounts needed when purchasing by the pound:

- One pound of asparagus will serve three persons.
- One pound of green beans (about one quart), four persons.
- One pound of shelled lima beans (less than a quart), four persons.
- One pound of beets (about five medium sized beets), four persons.
- A medium-sized head of solid cabbage weighs about three pounds and serves seven persons.
- One pound of brussels sprouts, six persons.
- One pound broccoli, four persons.
- TOMATOES, POUND FOR FOUR
- One medium-sized, well trimmed head of cauliflower weighs about one and one-half pounds and will serve four persons.
- Four rather small tomatoes weigh one pound and will serve four persons.
- One pound of rhubarb, after being stewed will serve three persons.
- One pound of fresh spinach, three persons.
- One pound of peas in the pod (about one quart) yields about one cup, shelled. Allow two pounds for four persons.
- One pound of mushrooms will serve

Concert At New Thought Temple
Most Enjoyable

A most enjoyable evening rewarded the patrons of the second of the series of concerts under the auspices of the New Thought Temple held in the hall, Fort Street, yesterday evening. Miss Scott-Burritt was in charge of the programme, and Mrs. B. G. Ruddock lent valuable assistance. Professor Mobius gave a brief address, and A. E. Hood acted as chairman.

Archie McCorkindale, opened the programme with an overture, "Chinese Suite," which introduced the Chinese play which followed. Two young Chinese rendered Oriental music behind the curtains throughout this act, and the burning of incense added to the atmosphere. Those taking part in the play were Miss Daisy Borrowman, Thomas Caterall, Jack Harvey and Mrs. Evelyn Pearson.

Cumberland Guides
Hold Garden Party

Special to The Times
Cumberland, May 26.—On Saturday the Cumberland Girl Guide Association committee held a garden party and entertainment to raise funds for a summer camp. Mrs. M. E. Kinloch, Divisional Commissioner for South Vancouver Island, was present.

A group of Nanaimo Boy Scouts, under their scout master, W. Wheeler, gave an exhibition of acrobatics. The Cumberland Guides gave some country dances, and acted a scene from "A Midsummer Night's Dream," under the direction of Miss L. E. Hyde. The scenery of large fir boughs on the lawn lent itself admirably to the production. Those taking part were as follows: Shy Oberon, Margaret James; Queen Titania, Betty Greig; Puck, Valerie Gatz; Fairies, Mamie Chow, Alice Carmichael, Masaka Hara, Kinoko Tahara, Kikue Fugimoto, and Iris Watson; Bottom, Greta Greig; First Quince, Margaret Shortt; Flute, Betty Shortt; Snout, Ruth Pachke.

Tas was served during the afternoon, and the entertainment realized about $48. The guides were very grateful to Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Scott for lending their garden, and to all who helped them.

Your Baby and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRID

BE SURE OF WATER AND FOOD AT VACATION SITE

The moment the mother begins making her plans for the summer her chief perplexity is a choice of resort. Shall it be the ocean, the mountains, or the lakes? Which will be best for her child? Is the baby too young to go into the water? What about food?

AVOID DAMPNESS

The child who has a tendency to any skin trouble such as eczema or any kind who has asthma and a chronically runny nose, usually fares better at a high, dry, hot resort. Dampness is not for him. Otherwise, unless the child be actually afflicted with some chest condition for which the mountain air would be much more beneficial than the sea or ocean air, the choice of resort is immaterial.

As for bathing small babies or small children in the icy waters of lake or ocean, I am strongly opposed to it. The child's body surface is so small that his body heat is easily lost. The vigorous onslaught of icy water against his delicate frame and the quick loss of heat are not conducive to improving his chances of keeping well. Rather, let the children play in the sand and dabble their toes in the waves that roll up harmlessly on the beach.

THE WATER SUPPLY

The question of food is always a serious one. Inquire about the water supply and make certain that the water is tested and suitable for use without boiling. If there is any question of its purity, as there may be in water supplies used only a few months of the year, all water for the family should be boiled or bottled waters bought.

These precautions as to a pure water also apply to informal camping sites. The clear, running stream may be the receptacle for all kinds of refuse and its use an invitation to trouble. The water and food supplies at summer camps for children should be subjected to inquiry. In almost all cases conscientious camp managers take these precautions for parents, but there is no harm in asking.

My leaflet, "Traveling With Baby," offers additional information on the use of different milks, and convenient vegetables and cereals. Send a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request for it to this department.

Fruit-a-tions
end years
of pain

"I suffered excruciatingly with indigestion and sick headaches for years. I could hardly eat anything and was badly constipated. I realize now, of course, that I was in a very run-down condition. Fortunately for me a neighbor recommended 'Fruit-a-tions' and I began taking them. I am certainly glad I did. They regulated my system and freed me up generally so that now I am in the best of health. I would not hesitate to recommend them to anyone."

PUPILS' WORK INTERRUPTED

Esquimalt Trustee Claims in Protesting Against Normal Students' Visits

Opposition to the Department of Education's practice of having Normal students take over instruction duties at various schools during May and June was voiced by resolution at the Esquimalt School Board meeting yesterday evening.

The protest was sponsored by Trustee Alex. Lockley on the grounds that change of teachers so late in the year might have a serious effect on the children's study, at a time when they were preparing for the June examinations.

He pointed out that the pupils spent the larger part of May and June studying for their annual tests, and it was not fair to them to have the regular curriculum interrupted. He was not outwardly opposed to having the Normal students teaching in the schools, but thought their work should be carried out earlier in the year. The protest will be forwarded to the department.

FANCIFUL FABLES

HOLIDAY ON SALT SPRING

Crowning of May Queen and Sports Are Features

Ganges, May 26.—The weatherman favored the residents of Salt Spring Island and their visitors when they celebrated May 24 with the crowning of the May Queen and a sports day which was arranged by the South Salt Spring Island Women's Institute.

This year's "May Queen" Gladys Winthrop is a pretty and popular pupil of Ganges school. She was accompanied by her maids of honor, Doris Stevens and Margaret Cairns and several attendants. The queen's float, prettily decorated in white, with trimmings of white and white, led the procession of gaily-decorated floats and tricycles, starting at 1:30 p.m. from the Institute Hall and proceeding to Captain Drummond's field opposite Fulford Harbor, where the coronation took place. The ceremony was performed by last year's queen, Melba Smith, who wished the new occupant of the throne a happy rule. The queen received as prize, a handsome silver bracelet. Her attendants received silver bangles as mementoes of the occasion.

Judges for the decorated floats were Mr. and Mrs. Hicks, newcomers to the island, and Clayton Atkins of Fulford, who awarded first prize to the Ganges School float, "The Wedding of the Painted Dolls"; second prize to the Girl Guides' float, as "World Peace," which beautifully carried out the idea of the Dove of Peace, "Ethel Barrow" hovering over the "League of Nations Assembly"; third prize went to Burgoyne Bay School, with Robin Hood and his merry men, and fourth prize to Isabella Point as "The Woman in a Shoe." This was an attractive entry and the teacher, Miss Iris Vye, was cordially congratulated. Other floats included those of Beaver Point School, "Occupations"; Central Settlement School, "Provinces of Canada"; and the Anglican Young People's Association, model of the ferry City Peak. First prize for decorated tricycles was won by little John Stewart, "John Bull"; second prize by Madison Latherwood as "Canada," and the third by Elmer Lee. Instead of a Maypole dance, this year there were competitive school drills. First prize was awarded to Ganges School and second to Central Settlement.

On the field, every preparation was made for the enjoyment and entertainment of the onlookers. Ice cream stalls were in charge of Madeline H. Johnson and R. Young. A fruit and soft drinks stall was in charge of Mrs. J. Morel, Mrs. R. McLennan and Miss Gladys Shaw. Mrs. A. J. Eaton had a pretty stall of miscellaneous articles, which found ready sale. For the older visitors, afternoon tea tables were set out with Mesdames J. Cairns, R. Maxwell, A. Davis, G. E. Akerman and others attending. For the young ones, there was a candy stall, with Mrs. P. C. Mollett in attendance. Coconut shies were in charge of F. Downie and C. Wakelin. Mrs. G. Wakelin sold tickets for the handsome Kenwood blanket, donated by Mrs. J. J. Shaw, which was won later by Bob Akerman.

The sports programme was run under direction of Norman West, principal of Ganges School. Following are the winners of first and second prizes:

NEW CRICKET SERIES OPENS

Knockout League Fixtures Billed For Local Teams Here To-morrow

Two Games in City, With Wanderers Going Against Cowichan at Duncan

Teams in the Victoria and District Cricket League will open the first round of their initial knockout series to-morrow with a pair of games in the city and one at Duncan. All fixtures are scheduled to get under way at 2:15 o'clock.

Wanderers, league leaders last year who have gone through the first few games of the season without a victory, will be out in an effort to score their first win against Cowichan on the up-island pitch.

At Beacon Hill, Five C's and Victorians, who are tied in the standings, will take the field virtually at even strength to decide which squad will advance to the next round of play.

MEET LEAGUE LEADERS
Incogs will meet the league leading Albions at University School, not at Work Point as originally scheduled. The Albions have proved themselves the team to beat so far during the season, but the Incogs are out to make a new start in a new series and will most probably given them a good battle.

The following will represent the Albions: N. P. Pite, Penderay, Barclay, Enoch, Walton, Pritchard, Gibbons, D. Pite, Wood, Stoney and Freeman.

Henry Ford
Dearborn, Mich.

May 15, 1933

Time and again I am told—by my own organization and by others—that I penalize myself by quality.

Friendly critics protest our putting into the Ford V-8 what they call "twenty-year steel." They say such quality is not necessary; the public does not expect it; and that the public does not know the difference anyway.

But I know the difference.

I know that the car a man sees is not the car he drives—he drives the car which the engineer sees. The car which is seen, comprises beauty of design, color and attractive accessories—all desirable, of course. The best evidence that we think so is that they are all found on the Ford V-8.

But these are not the car. The car proper, which is the basis of all the rest, is the type of engine and its reliability; the structure of chassis and body, ruggedly durable; the long thought and experiment given to safety factors; the steady development of comfort, convenience and economy. These make the car.

A car can be built that will last two or three years. But we have never built one. We want the basic material of our car to be as dependable the day it is discarded as the day it is bought. Ford cars built 15 years ago are still on the road. It costs more to build a durable car—but two items we do not skimp are cost and conscience. A great many things could "get by"—the public would never know the difference. But we would know.

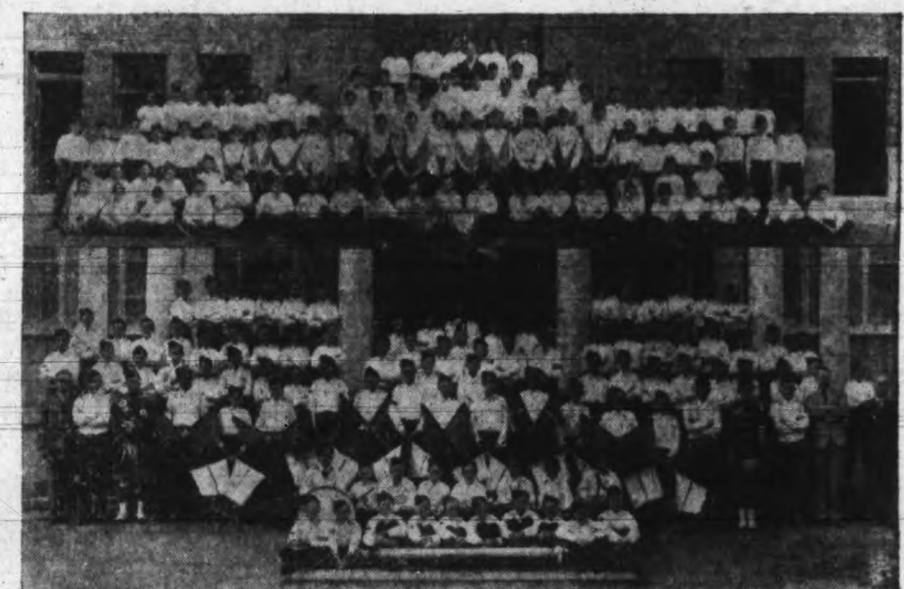

The new Ford V-8 is a car that I endorse without any hesitancy. I know what is in it. I trust our whole thirty years' reputation with it. It is even better than our previous V-8. It is larger, more rugged and mechanically a better job all round.

I readily say this in an advertisement because I know the car will back it up.

Henry Ford

This recent letter from Henry Ford expresses the fundamental policy behind the Ford car. It is so frank, clear and convincing that it is reprinted here by the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited.

TWO OF VICTORIA'S FIVE CADET CORPS

The top photograph shows the North Ward Cadet Corps and the lower one the Oaklands Cadet Corps in uniform after their inspection by the district cadet officer, Captain E. M. MacBryne. At the commemorative service held on May 23 cadets from South Park and North Ward schools supplied the quota required by the I.O.D.E. The marching was good and the manly bearing of the boys drew favorable comment from those present.

These cadets are part of the 388th Cadet Battalion of which Lieut.-Col. P. E. George is commanding officer. The battalion includes the following corps with the names of their instructors:

Boys' Central School, J. McKenzie, 120 cadets; Margaret Jenkins School, R. MacKay, fifty-five cadets; South Park School, J. Ross, ninety-four cadets; Sir James Douglas School, R. V. James, fifty-eight cadets; North Ward School, Capt. W. Muncey, ninety-eight cadets; Oaklands School, J. Stevenson, eighty-three cadets; Victoria West School, R. Kipling, thirty-seven; Quadra School, R. N. Grubb, thirty cadets; George Jay School, Capt. J. Adam, seventy-eight cadets; Total 653.

The band company under G. H. E. Green, principal of Quadra School, numbers thirty-five members. Out of this number some 400 cadets have been taught first aid. About 100 have been taught how to swim and how to save life.

Major A. C. Hinton supervises the whole cadet organization.

Gabby Hartnett, who did not hit at all, dropped out of the sextette.

DOMINION THEATRE

Joe E. Brown is showing on the screen of the Dominion Theatre to-day in his latest First National comedy, "Elmer the Great," which is said to be the most uproariously funny of any picture he has appeared in to date.

"Elmer the Great," written by Ring Lardner and George M. Cohan, was a comedy riot on the stage and is said to be even more hilarious as a screen play, because many of the startling sequences which could be only hinted at before the footlights are actually depicted in the picture.

Some of the funniest as well as most intense scenes in the picture occur during the playing of a World Series in a downpour of rain.

The plot concerns a big town boy who develops into the champion battman of the big league. He is also the champion eater and long-time sleeper. His cocksureness makes him the butt of innumerable jokes by other members of his team.

Italian Athletes Are To Be Feared in Next Olympic Games

Country Has Produced Great Champions in Many Sports

Victoria Track Men Show Up Well in New Westminster

SPORTS EXPERTS are forecasting the Italians as a most serious threat to athletes of the United States for supremacy in the next Olympic Games in 1936. Premier Mussolini is helping the cause of his countrymen by spending considerable money and effort into building a great athletic system in Italy. Stadiums, coaches, team travel, etc., are backed by the state. Italian officials did not expect great things of their 1932 team. And yet the team finished second to the United States, in spite of the fact that it had no women to aid its point total. The Italians, for instance, were first in fencing, cycling, gymnastics and shooting, fourth in crew racing and Greco-Roman wrestling; fifth in boxing and weight lifting and seventh in track and field. It can be observed that in those sports which have been popular and well-known in Italy the Italians became world champions. Even in those which are new and unfamiliar, such as boxing and track, they did well.

Outside of the Olympic Games there have been many notable champions of Italian birth or descent. In boxing Canzonieri is known as the greatest fighting man of to-day, pound for pound. Primo Carnera, although not a heavyweight champion, will engage in a title bout with Jack Sharkey. Primo has received orders from Mussolini to win the title. Carnera says, "I want to do the last thing in the world I want to do is disappoint him." In auto racing Ralph De Palma was kingpin for years, and has been followed by Ferdinando De Paolo. The Italian recently annexed the world airplane speed record. In tennis bowling Andy Varipapa is world record holder for seven games and six games, and has shot nineteen perfect 300 games.

It is evident from the performances of these men that the lads from the boot-shaped land can become champions in almost any line of sport. One popular conception of Latin-blooded athletes is that they have great enthusiasm, but are front-runners. That conception is a mistake. Frank Carideo, great Notre Dame football player, is a good example. The tougher the game, the more he got, until he had built a reputation for the coolest and greatest quarterback under fire in American football history. Then, too, there is Gene Sarzan, who is known far and wide as the greatest golfer in a pinch that ever trod a fairway. Last year in the United States open he played to shoot 68 to win. He came through with a 68. And in hundreds of friendly rounds on that course he had never been able to do better than 67 before.

Consider, too, the case of Luigi Beccali, Milan, who won the 1,500 metre race at the last Olympics. Coming into the last straightaway time was far from good. He was apparently a hopeless beaten contender. Suddenly he uncorked the most amazing sprint of the whole Olympic Games to pass all the other competitors and win by a great margin.

Joe Addison, who has had a bright track season forecast for him this year, received just that recently when he was up again to higher endeavor in New Westminster on Empire Day. Running against Harold Wright, Canadian Olympic man, he placed second in the quarter mile, fifty-one and two-fifths seconds. And that's moving on a soft track.

In view of the fact that the two events furnished the first real competition of the year for him, the outlook is promising. He was up against a good man in Wright, who has won his spurs in national competition. Wright, in the quarter mile, was fifty-one and two-fifths seconds. And that's moving on a soft track.

With the provincial championships still some weeks away, Addison is rated a good bet for the quarter. He has not really got down to serious training yet, and should reach the peak of his form when the British Columbia title event rolls around.

In the half mile feature, Chuck Cunningham went down to an old rival, Tommy Herd. Tommy and Chuck have been like that in the eight-eighths for years, first one taking the event and then the other. They like to run against one another. And the one thing Chuck likes better than beating second to Tommy is beating him.

Dog Racing Meet Opens at Portland

Portland, Ore., May 26.—The first dog races ever held in Oregon yesterday evening opened a sixty-day season of the sport at the Civic Stadium here. A crowd estimated by officials at 5,000 attended.

Gov. Julius L. Meier, who participated in the opening along with other state and city officials picked the winner in the first race. The State Legislature at its recent session enacted a law legalizing horse and dog racing.

LONDON WINNER

Detroit, May 26.—Jim London defended his claim to the heavyweight wrestling title here yesterday evening, pinning Frank Judson, Detroit, with an airplane spin and body slam in thirty-two minutes and thirty-five seconds.

Upsets May Feature Flat Races Carded At Crystal Garden

Entry Lists For V.A.S.C. and Y.M.C.A. Show Strong Array of Talent

GARDEN CLUB OLD GUARD WILL SWIM

Men's 100 Yards Freestyle Expected to Be Close, Well Balanced

After a series of novelty and handicap galas, the Vancouver Island Swimming League will swing back to standard events for its next gala at the Crystal Garden on Monday evening, and judging from the entry list, teams will furnish some of the keenest battles in the organization's history, as their members thrash their way through the water in quest of chief laurels.

Several upsets are expected as younger swimmers who have been showing outstanding prowess in recent meets stack up against some of the old favorites.

The old guard of the Crystal Garden, Eleanor Peden and Lillian Stokes, are figured good bets for the girls' freestyle and backstroke events, while Penny Walker and Helen Unsworth are expected to nick a few firsts for the Y.M.C.A.

Ivor Fuller and Hazel Wright are favored to win points for the V.A.S.C. Although it is expected these stars will come through in their various specialties, exceptionally good battles are looked for in contests for second and third place.

One of the features of the evening will be the men's 100 yards freestyle in which Bill Cooper will probably carry the Crystal Garden colors, Denny Walker, Chris Usher and Percy Riddle will be in the men's team, and the "Y" hopes and Ivor Fuller and Vic Wilson the Victoria Amateur Swimming Club's challenge.

All entries are swimming well and a hair-line finish is anticipated. Either Eleanor Peden or Lillian Stokes is expected to win the women's 100 yards backstroke, while Walker is figured an almost sure bet for the same event in the men's team.

Fuller should have no difficulty in winning the boys under eighteen freestyle and the Y.M.C.A. entries are expected to come through in the 100 yards freestyle, although Ernie Peden will probably furnish exceptional opposition from the Crystal Garden.

The women's 100 yards freestyle seems to be an open event, with Eleanor Peden and Lillian Stokes ranking slight favorites.

ENTRIES

Entries of the Crystal Garden club were tied up in the mails to-day, but those from the Victoria Amateur Swimming Club and Y.M.C.A. follow:

Boys' under fourteen, fifty yards freestyle—V.A.S.C., Owen Gibbs, R. Saunders, G. Homewood and M. Knowles; Y.M.C.A., Audrey Adam, Pearl Davidson and Barbara Unsworth.

Boys' under fourteen, fifty yards freestyle—V.A.S.C., R. Moss, D. Crawford and H. Rowall; Y.M.C.A., Ted Blenkinsop, Ernie Beadle, Art McKinnon and Gordon Binnie.

"THE GREAT" SHIRES HURT IN FREE-FOR-ALL BATTLE

Colorful Baseball Player and Would-be Boxer Ordered Returned to Police Headquarters After Having Injuries Treated at Hospital; Fight Takes Place in Private Home

Kentville, Ky., May 26.—Charles Arthur "The Great" Shires, baseball player and former boxer, was among four persons treated for injuries Thursday after a free-for-all fight. Police ordered he be returned to headquarters after his bruises were treated at a hospital.

The most seriously injured was Jack Deacon, thirty-two, whose right leg was fractured. Shires received two bumps on the head and a cut on his nose. Others cut and bruised were Robert Armstrong, twenty-six, and Carrie Potts.

Police who investigated the affair ordered that Jimmy Adair, second baseman of the Louisville American Association baseball team, be brought to headquarters for questioning also, after the officers said Shires told them the fight started when an attempt was made to steal $150 from Adair.

Shires is in Louisville playing as first baseman for the Columbus American Association club. The trouble occurred, Shires said, while he and Adair were visiting the Deacon home. Shires, according to the police, said Adair was a participant, but left the home before officers arrived.

Daniels, Thorogood, Ride First Winners At Willows Track

Two Apprentice Boys Boot Home Maidea Winners on Muddy Track

DAILY DOUBLE RETURNS LARGE

Altavar and Ginny Mine Register Easy Victories

Two apprentice boys rode the first winners of their racing careers at Willows oval yesterday, or in track parlance, broke their maidens.

Thorogood, riding for Ferguson's Northwest Stable, cracked down with Willbank in the second event and nodded to the judges in the initial slot for the first time.

Daniels, bearing D. Taylor's silks on Cerasus Lady, led home the pack in the sixth and smiled over his boyish face as he returned to the stand.

Daniels is only sixteen and was brought to the track by A. E. Smith, the well-known local owner. The boy, from Boise, Idaho, which has produced some of the greatest riders on the continent, and he shows promise of good riding ability.

Both the lads celebrated their maiden-breaking efforts by carrying off a second apiece as well.

While the betting was not so heavy yesterday as on the opening day, the returns posted by the winners were in two figures several times and the daily double paid off at a figure of $263.15 on a $2 pasteboard. It was composed of Willbank, a 4 to 1 shot in the second, and Queen of Prosser, an 8 to 1 shot in the fourth.

Queen of Prosser was the longest priced winner.

Texas Longhorn, a six-year-old chestnut, put the red and white colors of L. Kellow in front of the opening center over five and one-half furlongs when the well-backed favorite, Highway, failed to make the grade. Better Day was second and Nellie Basil copped the show slot.

Two Apprentice Boys Boot Home Maidea Winners on Muddy Track

DAILY DOUBLE RETURNS LARGE

Altavar and Ginny Mine Register Easy Victories

Two apprentice boys rode the first winners of their racing careers at Willows oval yesterday, or in track parlance, broke their maidens.

Thorogood, riding for Ferguson's Northwest Stable, cracked down with Willbank in the second event and nodded to the judges in the initial slot for the first time.

Daniels, bearing D. Taylor's silks on Cerasus Lady, led home the pack in the sixth and smiled over his boyish face as he returned to the stand.

Daniels is only sixteen and was brought to the track by A. E. Smith, the well-known local owner. The boy, from Boise, Idaho, which has produced some of the greatest riders on the continent, and he shows promise of good riding ability.

Both the lads celebrated their maiden-breaking efforts by carrying off a second apiece as well.

While the betting was not so heavy yesterday as on the opening day, the returns posted by the winners were in two figures several times and the daily double paid off at a figure of $263.15 on a $2 pasteboard. It was composed of Willbank, a 4 to 1 shot in the second, and Queen of Prosser, an 8 to 1 shot in the fourth.

Queen of Prosser was the longest priced winner.

Texas Longhorn, a six-year-old chestnut, put the red and white colors of L. Kellow in front of the opening center over five and one-half furlongs when the well-backed favorite, Highway, failed to make the grade. Better Day was second and Nellie Basil copped the show slot.

Epsom Derby Will Find "Open Field" Face the Barrier

On Previous Showings It Is Nearly Impossible to Select Real Favorite

Rodosto's Staying Powers Questioned

Edward Esmond's Interlace Fancied By Many; Young Lover Is Well Rated

Special to The Times

London, May 26.—The year 1933 is to see a unique Derby in that nobody seems to know who will win. As the Epsom classic approaches there are generally dozens of tips coming from all parts of the country. This year those who have been most profuse in their information in former seasons are strangely quiet about the result of the classic to be run May 31.

The Derby seldom presents a great problem to the prospective backer. Those who know little about racing can little with the entries carries their money. Students of the sport can generally approach the problem with the same equanimity—nearly always there is the "obvious horse for the job" and half a dozen more who stand excellent chances each way.

Whether such a quick disposal of the problem is subsequently proved justified is immaterial. The point is that before the race the "obvious horse" seems "cut and dried."

Last year Orwell was an obvious choice for the Epsom classic on the strength of his impressive victory in the Two Thousand Guineas which followed on his brilliant career as a two-year-old. It is a matter of history that thousands of pounds were lost over the colt at Epsom when he failed when backed down to even money.

THE SAME STORY

The year before it was practically the same story. Orwell was an automatic choice, although he started at more generous odds than Orwell. Mr. Dewar's colt had advertised his claims to consideration when running in the Epsom Handicap, and he carried off the spoils at Epsom in due course.

What a different story is presented this year to the students of racing. There is no horse who, by his previous form, can be made out to have a favorite's chance. Indeed, the market, within a few days of the race, still fails to reveal a clearly defined favorite and it now seems certain that the race will remain an open secret until "the off."

From all sides comes the assertion that this year's three-year-old colts are a very poor lot. Strength is added to this argument when the weights in the Free Handicap are recalled. This handicap is compiled at the end of each flat-race season and comprises the official estimation of the year's two-year-olds.

Reluctantly followers of racing were obliged to admit that the two-year-olds were not up to standard but it was confidently predicted that they would quickly come into their own as three-year-olds. Then came the Two Thousand Guineas the first of the new season's classic races. It was won by Rodosto, a French colt which, if records are anything out of the ordinary, is nothing out of the ordinary.

MODERATE LOT

More than that none of the English colts were able to put in a serious challenge to the invader who won with a little in hand after losing a length at the starting gate.

Immediately all doubts were dispelled in the minds of the racing public. The 1933 colts were a very moderate lot.

The French horse started a well-backed candidate for the "Guineas" although the odds were little to recommend him. The professional element apart from the fact that he was a recent winner in his own country and could be expected to strip fitter than the majority of his English rivals he had been carried through in a more equitable climate.

The chief doubt concerning Rodosto, the Frenchman had been the first to start, it is his ability to last out the extra four furlongs at Epsom. The jockey was at work on Rodosto some way from home in the "Guineas," and it appeared to some that the animal was not enjoying the last quarter of a mile. There are sound grounds for the

Heavyweight Wrestling Title Claimant Wins in Straight Fall at Vancouver

Vancouver, B.C., May 26.—Vancouver mat events yesterday evening saw Jim Browning, 250, New York City, take two straight falls to defeat Bob Krus, Portland, 200, in the main event of the Week's wrestling card.

After Krus had given the champion stiff opposition in the first round, Browning took a fall in the third with a series of body slaps and a body press. Browning took the second round in a straight fall, deciding the match with the same holds.

The semi-final saw Dan Koloff, 225, and Everett Ribbons, Okla. 220, wrestle four rounds to a draw. In the preliminary Carl Maso, New Mexico, 163, and Tiny Simmo, Arizona, 160, went their scheduled three rounds without a fall.

Purchase, N.Y., May 26.—Enraptured by the heat and by the weight of his years, William Muldoon, illustrious exponent of physical culture, yesterday celebrated in bed the eighty-eighth anniversary of his birth. He was secluded from his friends by his physician's order.

For some time the solid man of being, sage of the New York State Athletic Commission, has been failing in health. The warm, humid weather of the last few days has aggravated his condition. He was secluded from his friends by his physician's order.

Among those kept from Muldoon's bedside was Tunney, the former heavyweight boxing champion, who was thirty-five yesterday, and who has spent his last few birthdays with Muldoon.

suspicious as to the colt's stamina, he was son of Epiphany, the former brilliant sprinter, had distinct stamina limitations.

GINO NOT A STAYER

Gino, who finished third in the Guineas, beaten one length and three quarters by Rodosto and King Salmal can hardly be regarded as the Epsom horse. He is a grey son of Tetrameta, but while he is obviously possessed of fine speed, he can hardly be expected to last out the gruelling distance of the Guineas.

Tetrameta was the fastest colt of the year up to a mile, but after that distance had been covered he lost his action. He has passed on the Guineas, appearing in his first New Argentine team of Zappa and Adelm. Echeverria, to-morrow's two straight matches would be more formalities.

The Americans yesterday had an excuse for the presence of the French Ambassador, Andre de Laboulaye, who watched the play with interest by virtue of his country's possession of the coveted Davis Cup.

Ellsworth Vines and Wilmer Allison Score Straight Victories in Final Round of American Zone Play; Victory Will Send Americans on European Invasion Again

Washington, May 26.—With lanky Ellsworth Vines and Wilmer Allison putting on a show of tennis power whenever it was needed, the United States Davis Cup team yesterday virtually assured itself another invasion of Europe by sweeping through the first day's singles with Argentina without the loss of a set here yesterday.

Vines seldom extended in running through the game with Adrian Zappa, quick-footed Argentine captain, 6-2, 6-3, 6-4. In the opening rounds of the final round of American zone play.

Allison, American captain, encountered stiffer opposition in Hector Carrazza, appearing in his first New Argentine Davis Cup match, but completed the cleaning sweep for the day by winning 6-2, 6-4, 6-3.

Wins Fifth Straight Game As Relief Hurler; Washington Regains Second Berth

Brooklyn Dodgers, who looked for a while like one of the important teams of the National League, have suddenly deflated since they began their tour of the western half of the circuit. Yesterday they ran into a 4 to 1 defeat in their first game at Cincinnati that dropped them down to seventh place in the standing.

The victory sent the Reds into fourth place again as Chicago Cubs knocked Boston's Braves loose from their first division berth with a 3 to 0 shutout behind Pat Malone's two-hit hurling. New York and Pittsburgh were rained out and St. Louis and Philadelphia had an open date.

Lefty Grove again stepped in to save a game for Philadelphia's Athletics in the American League's feature game. He did it for the fifth consecutive game, pitching the last four innings as the A's best Detroit Tigers, 4 to 3, in twelve frames and moved into a tie with Chicago White Sox for third place. Washington Senators regained second place by passing three St. Louis pitchers for fourteen hits and a 7 to 2 victory.

Cleveland's four-game losing streak ended in Boston when the Indians edged out a 3 to 2 win. The Chicago-New York opener was halted by wet grounds.

Pinky Higgins punted another homer over the right field wall with one out in the twelfth to win the game.

of the opening day, and took second position, with Verna Loan third. Oak See delivered Queen of Prosper with a sparkling ride to edge out the well-favored Paved Way in the fourth. Both these ponies were once in Dr. J. B. Clark's stable, but Queen of Prosper has passed to a different owner and yesterday defeated her former stablemate, Warren S., a newcomer to the local track, was third.

SPREADS FIELD
R. P. Knudsen's Altavaz spreadeagled mediocre field to win the fifth, by about ten lengths with plenty of run left in him. He was an odds-on choice. Clear Star, the second favorite, took the place position with a comfortable margin over Patsy Carter.

The sixth provided a pretty duel between Taylor's Cerasus Lady and F. Buxton's Gabardine. The former got to the front as they turned into the back stretch and although yesterday challenged held on to the finish. Gabardine was second and Blue Middy got the show.

LITTLE-BROOM WINS
Mrs. B. Newman's Little Broom demonstrated his mud-rutting ability once, again by taking the seventh from a fair field. He was hustled to the front by Henson from the break and was raised nicely at the head of the field to the winner. Mary Beam closed with a terrific rush for the place and Duke Pohl was third.

this season but his preparation was not carried through to the entire satisfaction of his trainer. It is to be hoped that this was the reason for poor showing in the race, for at no stage did he promise to come through.

The colt is certain to be in better shape at Epsom and if he has recaptured his two-year-old form Lord Durham's colt will be a danger to the best.

OTHER CONTENDERS
Of the others, Lochiel, Harinero, Interlace and Light Sussex made most appeal. After the failure of Manitoba in the Guinness it is likely that Lochiel will be the chief home of Fred Darling's powerful Beckhampton stable. He is a nice staying colt but may be rather chopped for speed when the others start accelerating.

Harinero gained an impressive victory in the Greenham Plate at Newbury. Subsequent running suggests that he earned his reputation rather cheaply and it is possible that the majority of his opponents were not in racing trim.

Interlace ran a good race to finish fifth in the Guinness. He is bred to stay, for he claims Hurry On as his sire. This one may represent the best outsider in the race.

Light Sussex was a useful two-year-old. He is trained in the north and horses emanating from that part of the country seldom receive serious consideration for the Derby. However, it is nothing against the colt if he is good enough, but on the running in the Craven Stakes earlier in the season, Lochiel appears to hold him.

Summing up the two to make most appeal are Felicitation and Hyperion, and of the two the former is slightly preferred.

A likely schway but may be Interlace, about whose stamina there can be no doubt.

the failure of the Aga Khan's colt is explained by the soft state of the going. Many will oppose Lord Derby's colt on the score that he is lacking in scope. Such reasoning was proved unsound last year, when Dastur, one of the smallest classic horses of the year, finished second in the Two Thousand Guinea, the Derby and St. Leger.

At the beginning of this season there was no more fancied colt than his stable companion Scarlet Tiger. This colt by Colorado of Trilogy, gave great promise as a youngster and was built on lines which suggested that he would make up into a grand three-year-old.

In five appearances last season he won one race, the Lavant Stakes at Goodwood, when he beat Felicitation three quarters of a length. He was greatly fancied to carry off the Guinness.

There are still those who hold that Manitoba will confirm his two-year-old promise. They point out that his indifferent display behind Rodosto when starting a good favorite is explained by the stoppage in his work just prior to the race. It is true that the colt slightly injured a leg on the home gallops which necessitated his absence from regular work for a couple of days, but the trainer subsequently announced that it would make no difference to his chances in the first of the season's classics.

Manitoba walked round the paddock in a boot prior to the race, but he showed no ill effects when galloping to the starting-gate.

DASH IS ABSENT
The son of Manana was very prominent until the bushes, where he suddenly dropped out in the manner of a non-stayer. It may be that he rapped the injured limb, but in any case he was not running when the same dash which marked his display as a two-year-old.

Of those who failed in the Guinness perhaps the most promising was the Aga Khan's Felicitation. This is a stable companion of Gino and may well prove to be the better of the two after a mile has been covered.

Felicitation is by Colorado out of Felicitia and won two races out of six and was runner-up in the Craven Stakes last season. The colt was distinctly backward in the Guinness yet managed to finish seventh. He was rather chopped for speed at all stages of the race but can be relied upon to improve on that performance.

Frank Butters trains both Felicitation and Gino. He has another string to his bow in Young Lover, who also finished among the rack in the "Guinness."

This colt is by Son-in-Law, one of the greatest sires of stayers. Young Lover was not over-raced as a two-year-old. Indeed he was only seen out three times, yet he won one race—the Gimcrack Stakes and finished third in another.

SHOULD BE CONTENDER
Young Lover is one that is certain to be staying on when the others have had enough, and if he is the selected of the powerful Butters' stable it would not be surprising to find him starting favorite.

Statenmen was an early fancy for the race on the score of his impressive victory in the Hurst Park Great Two-Year-Old Stakes. The six furlongs was covered in very heavy going, and it may be that Victor Emmanuel's colt established a false reputation. At any rate he has done nothing since to suggest that he is anything out of the ordinary and judging by his make and shape he will be figuring in a lower class before very long.

Perhaps the most impressive Derby trial so far was staged at the Chester meeting when Hyperion cantered away with the Chester Vase. The Roodey, over which the race is run, is not really a racetrack in that the horses are always racing on a curve. Yet the one and a half miles of the Chester Vase is quite a severe test of stamina—it is certainly a more exciting test than the Two Thousand Guinea. The Vase has often served to introduce a Derby winner into the limelight. Papyrus carried off the Chester Vase before going on to his greater triumph at Epsom, Sandwich was a comfortable winner of the Vase and many consider that he should have subsequently won the Derby instead of being placed third.

Hyperion beat very little at Chester for none of the other ten runners could be considered in the top class. All the same the manner of the colt's victory greatly impressed the critics, and it is obvious that the animal will not fall at Epsom on the score of stamina.

There was no special significance attached to the frequent use of his left. He said he had no idea of attempting to beat Corbett with the left hand, but just wanted to keep himself reminded of the fact he had one.

"I've seen Corbett fight twice," McLarnin said, "but I haven't made any plans as to how I'll fight him. I'll decide that after I get into the ring."

To-day was Jimmy's last day of drill against opponents and it will be confined to light, fast men.

Racing Drivers Injured in Crash

Indianapolis, May 26.—William H. "Speed" Gardner, veteran Pittsburgh driver, received a broken left thigh and severe abrasions here late yesterday when he was thrown from his car while trying to qualify for the 500-mile race to be run next Tuesday.

Charles Schneider, Trufford, Pa., who was riding with Gardner, escaped with only a shaking up.

Gardner lost control of his machine, which struck the lower retaining wall,

MAKE WORK AND SAVE MONEY BY BUYING NOW!

A dollar spent means work for someone -- and work means wages -- and wages spent means more work, and so on. You can see the continuity of this simple operation and what it means when thought of in terms of tens of thousands of Buyers -- tens of thousands of wage-earners -- tens of thousands of spenders....

Chimneys come to life, wheels turn, whistles blow -- the eager line moves back to work -- confidence returns and with it normalcy. Not so hard if everyone does his share to take up the slack.

Prices are down. Your dollar goes further than it has for years---so in helping others you are helping yourself---so buy now and make work!

Late Buying Wave Brings Sharp Rise To Futures Prices

Winnipeg, May 26.—Breaking over the pit in late dealings, a wave of buying sent wheat futures prices sharply upwards in a closing flurry in to-day's session of the Winnipeg grain market. Recovering from early session declines, values closed more than 1/2 cent higher than the previous finish. Losses of as much as a cent were regained in the last fifteen minutes and futures ended 1/2 to 1/4 cent up. May closing at 62 1/2, July 63 1/4, October 65 1/4, and December 66 1/2 cents.

The first real buying of the season entered the pit near the close. Pressure of offerings, almost continuous for most of the early part of the day, lifted and support soon was at hand to uplift values. Late-session announcement of 500,000 bushels of export sales assisted in the upturn. Earlier depression was wiped away in the last minutes and "shorts" hurried to cover quickly. Moving up buoyantly, values finished at the day's highest points.

TORONTO MINE IS FEVERISH

Toronto, May 26.—Quite a few high prices for the last four years and several all-time highs were set up in the Standard Mining Market to-day in one of the most feverish markets of the current movement. More than 1,000,000 shares changed hands.

Profit-taking reduced the gains a little in the late trading but at the close prices were well above yesterday's finish.

Lake Shore was a heavy trader and closed at 41.00 up 1.25. McIntyre gained 1.40 to 32.00. Hollinger 30 to 10.05. Pioneer 35 to 12.10. Tech Hughes 35 to 6.35 and Wright Hargreaves 43 to 6.25.

All the base metal and most of the silver shares firmed up smartly. Smelters jumped 7.00 to 108. Noranda closed 1.25 to 30.75. Pender Orelle 2 to 1.12. Coast Copper 20 to 3.70. Nickel 10 to 16.05. Sudbury Basin 7 to 1.42 and Serritt Gordon 2 to 82.

In the silver Eldorado gained a few cents.

Chief interest to-day centred in the distillery stocks, the oils and smelters. The big base metal advanced 5 1/2 to 10 1/2, its high point for the year. Nickel gained 5 to 10.05. C.P.R. was unchanged at 15 and Brazilian up 1/4 at 72.

Imported featured the oil group with a jump to 13, where it closed with a gain of 3/4. Walker's common worked higher to close at 16 1/2 for a gain of 1 1/2.

The preferred advanced a fraction. Bank shares had a strong day. Royal Bank Commerce touched new highs for the year, gains for the day ranging up to five in the case of Montreal. The industrials moved higher. Pressed Metals and Steel of Canada pointing the way.

Don't Marry a Mamma's Baby!

Find Wife With Mother Complex Hopeless

Marry a Waster, a Spender, a Clothes-horse or a Bridge Sharp, But Don't, As You Value Your Happiness, Marry a Girl Who Puts Her Mother's Welfare Above Yours, Says Victim

WHEN my son gets old enough to think about marriage I'm going to give him only one piece of advice," said a man to me the other day. "I'm going to say to him: 'Boy, marry a waster and a spender, or a clothes-horse or a poor cook or a bridge sharp if your fancy falls on one of them, but don't, as you value your happiness, marry a girl with the mother complex. The others may make you a poor wife, but if you marry a mamma's baby you won't have any wife at all. She will always belong to mother. Never to you.'

"I know from experience. I fell in love with a girl who was pretty and sweet and intelligent and who carried pretty nearly the whole line of feminine virtues and attractions, and everybody told me how lucky I was to get her. 'A good daughter makes a good wife,' they said, quoting the old proverb, which is about the most lying bit of propaganda that has ever been put over on simple, credulous, ignorant men. For let a girl once get addicted to ancestor-worship and you never can break her away from her faith. She will go on howling the knee to her mother as long as she lives and a mere husband will be only an incident in her cosmos.

"Now when Mary and I were married and she said that mother must must come and live with us because mother was old and would be so lonely and depended on her so much, I made no objection, though I couldn't see why mother was such a forlorn figure, being as how she was a remarkably robust and healthy woman in her early fifties, with plenty of money and several other married children. In my simplicity I figured that mother would just be a guest in our house, and if Mary felt it was her duty to cherish her it was all right with me.

"Little did I know that when woman has a duty fixation toward her mother it absorbs her from having any duty whatsoever to her husband. Mother comes first, and mother's comfort, mother's pleasure, mother's whims and, above all, mother's feelings, which are always spread all over the place are daughter's chief consideration, and if they come in conflict with husband's, so much the worse for him.

"So I've always run a bad second to mother. I've had to eat the food that agreed with mother's digestion. I have had to refrain from smoking because mother didn't like the smell of tobacco. I've had to have the people around me that mother liked instead of the ones I enjoyed. I've had to stay at home, or else go by myself because mother didn't like to travel and my wife wouldn't leave her alone. My wife has ruthlessly sacrificed my tastes and pleasures and habits to her mother. Apparently it has never even occurred to her that it is more a wife's duty to try to make her husband happy than it is her mother.

"Of course, every bridegroom enters marriage in the fond belief that his bride has put him on a pedestal and looks up to him and regards him as more or less of an oracle. I was soon to be undeceived on that score. We hadn't been married a month before I found out that the fountain of wisdom of which my wife drank was not me but her mother. She had got the 'mother-knows-best' idea so firmly planted in her mind that tons of the dynamite of experience with moss-grown opinions and morose views could not dislodge it.

"So we have lived our whole married life to the tune of 'mother thinks we should do this or that.' Or, 'mother says we mustn't do the other thing, and what I think on the subject has as little weight as the gibbering of an idiot. And if that isn't a deflator of vanity in a husband, I don't know what is.

"My wife promptly installed her mother as head of the house and I have never been anything in it but the bill-payer. All of her life my wife had given implicit obedience to her mother and, as far as possible, she has forced this same little-child role on me. We have had to do as mother said, or else there were scenes and tears and mother taking to her bed and having to be wheedled into forgiving us for the crime of thinking that we have some right to live our own lives. Of course, I have always been the chief culprit, for Mary is so enslaved to her mother that she would never even think of rebelling.

"And when the children came mother took entire charge of them. She named them hideous old family names against which my wife would not protest because it would wound mother's feelings. Mother scorns the scientific method of baby-raising because she didn't bring up her children that way, and so our babies have been bounced and rocked and sung to and made sick by improper feeding. But I have been helpless to protest them because my wife is sure that mother is infallible and knows more than all the baby doctors put together.

"And, worst of all, there has been no privacy in our married life. My wife and I have never had a chance to get really acquainted and speak out our hearts to each other because mother has always been listening in. We have had no opportunities to grow together because mother has always been between us, separating us. We have never had a meal alone together. We can never go off to the theatre together alone. We can't even take a ride without having to have mother along, back-seat chauffeur. We have missed all the sweetness and intimacy of marriage, for, after all, marriage is a twosome and any third party is an interloper.

"I have never been first with my wife. I have never been the head of my home. I have never been an oracle to her. It has always been mother that she considered first. And that is why I'm going to warn my son against marrying a girl with a mother complex."

Little Trips Into Nature

ELMS AND MAPLES

Among the great gifts which Nature has given us is the tree; and in spring-time the world is brightened for us when trees take on new green coats.

Elm Tree in the Berkshire Hills

Among the fine shade trees is the graceful elm. You may have seen long rows of elms on either side of a road, with upper branches stretched across the road and interwoven in such manner as to make what we might almost call a "tree tunnel."

To grow their best, elms need soil which contains a good deal of water. All trees need a supply of water, but there are some which can get along with much less than the elm.

The maple is another excellent shade tree; and in the maple family we find members which provide sap for maple sugar. Anna Botsford Comstock, in her valuable "Handbook of Nature Study," tells of March days during her childhood when she and others went forth to "tap the sugar-bush." Her account of the treatment of the sap runs, in part:

"After about three days of gathering and boiling sap came the 'strapping down.' During all that afternoon we watched the tawny, steaming mass in the kettle. When it threatened to boil over, we threw in a thin slice of pork which seemed to have some mysterious calming influence.

"The odor grew more and more delicious and presently the sirup was sufficiently thick. The kettle was swung off the legs and the sirup dipped through a cloth strainer into a carrying-pail.

"The next day our interests were transferred to the house where we 'sugared off.' There we boiled the sirup to sugar on the stove and stirred it until it grained, before we poured it into tins to make cakes of maple sugar."

Other trees produce sweet sap, but the sugar maple gives better sap for sugar-making than any other tree on this continent. In some lands sap is taken from palm-trees and made into a very high grade of sugar.

No U.S. Senate Vote On New Peace Plan

Associated Press
Washington, May 26.—President Roosevelt intends to make his new peace policy effective without chancing rejection by the United States Senate, traditional defender of isolation of the United States.

If a satisfactory arms reduction agreement is reached at Geneva, the Roosevelt doctrine of non-interference with co-operative efforts to enforce peace will be summed up in a declaration signed only by the United States, and thus not requiring Senate ratification.
